Six Democrats to Run For Post As Governor

COLUMBUS, March 16—Forty-eight Democrats and 25 Republicans will contest for their party's nomination to 11 state offices in the May 14 primary, petitions on file with Secretary of State Earl Griffith revealed today.

In the race for governor, six Democrats, including two former governors, and two Republicans, including Gov. John W. Bricker, filed.

Governor Bricker, who twice has been unopposed for the G.O.P. nomination, will be opposed in the primary by Addison Q. Thacher, a former mayor of Toledo. Political observers expected Thacher to assail the relief financing program of Bricker.

THREE CAGE GAMES ON C. A. C. CARD TONIGHT

Three basketball games are on Saturday evening's schedule in the Circleville Athletic Club tournament beginning at 7:30. Purina Feeds will play Green Cloisters of Columbus first, then Federal Glass of Columbus and City Club of Chillicothe will meet at 8:30 in the consolation game, the Newark Gasco and Columbus Gosnell Funeral Home tangling at 9:30 for the championship.

F. D. R.'S WELLES BACK IN ROME FOR CONFERENCE

ROME, March 16—Returning to Rome for his second visit in less than a month, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles today began a swift series of conferences which may have a vital bearing on whether Europe's future shall be continued war or peace.

Welles, who is climaxing his fact-finding mission for President Roosevelt, talked with King Victor Emmanuel at the Quirinal Palace for nearly eighty minutes.

Then the American diplomat hurried to the offices of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano with whom he conferred for seventy minutes. It was Welles' second lengthy meeting with Ciano, the first having occurred shortly after his first arrival in Italy.

Welles is expected to be received by Pope Pius on Monday, as well as Premier Mussolini again before his winds up his tour of Europe's capitals in the interests of peace.

SHERIFF'S RACE ATTRACTS EIGHT ON DEM TICKET

Both Judges Unopposed As Deadline Passes For Petition Filing

COMMITTEEMEN LISTED

No Surprise Candidates Put Names In Various Races At Last Minute

With the deadline for filing petitions past, neither party lines up for the May primary with a full slate of candidates and no unexpected or previously unannounced office seekers entered the lists.

Democratic candidates far outnumber the Republican entries, particularly in the race for the office of sheriff in which eight Democrats have filed petitions and only one Republican. Judges Meeker Terwilliger and Lemuel Weldon run unopposed no opposition being offered either from within or without their own parties.

The candidates for the primaries, barring an independent entry, are as follows:

Common Pleas Judge: Meeker Terwilliger, Democrat.
Probate Judge: Lemuel Weldon, Republican.

County Commissioners: Democrats, John B. Keller, George Eitel, Wayne Hoover, A. H. Crownover, Clarence W. Helvering; Republicans, Edward Kreisel, William Green, Lyman Penn.

Representative to the General Assembly: Harry B. Welch, Democrat; William D. Radcliff, Republican.

Prosecutor: George E. Gerhardt, Democrat; Sterling Lamb, Republican.

Recorder: Democrats, Florence T. Campbell and Winifred Wallace. Clerk of Courts: Democrats, A. L. Wilder, John R. Heiskell, Byron Eby, George C. Barnes; Republican, Charles W. Kirkpatrick.

Sheriff: Democrats, Lowell M. Brown, Harry W. Riffe, Edward F. Mauger, Samuel T. Schleich, John G. Ward, Jr., Charles H. Radcliff, Worley Storts, E. B. Wilson; Republican, Walter H. Nelson.

Treasurer: Democrats, Robert G. Colville, Frank Anderson; Republicans, Clyde R. Brinker.

THIS CHICAGOAN FINDS TROUBLE ON NUPTIAL TRIP

CHICAGO, March 16—Rescued by police from an automobile parking lot where he had been marooned in his car for more than 30 hours, Erick Swanson, 40-year-old carpenter told this story today:

Last Saturday, he eloped to St. Louis with Mrs. Ellen Welch, 39, a divorcee. For their honeymoon, they used the bride's car, and her money. She had $200. Swanson said he had $4.

The wedding trip was a happy one until the couple neared Chicago. Then the new Mrs. Swanson became suspicious.

"She thought I might run off with her money," the unhappy bridegroom related. "So she took my trousseau for security."

"When we got to Chicago we drove to this parking lot, and then she left, saying she'd be back in 30 minutes. I waited and waited, but she never returned. I was stuck in the car without pants."

"Now I don't know what to do. Maybe I ought to go back to the parking lot. She might come. I want my pants, and my bride, too."

FAIRFIELD MAN KILLED

LANCASTER, March 16—Denver McDonald, 32, of nearby Pleasantville, was dead today, killed when his automobile crashed into a truck two miles south of his home town. Otto Walls, 22, Columbus, driver of the truck, escaped injury.

Seven Join Race For Claypool's Job in Congress

Robert Immell Offers Opposition To Incumbent; Five Republicans File Their Petitions For Nomination

That the 11th Ohio Congressional District, which includes Pickaway County, is in for one of its hottest primary fights in recent years was evidenced Saturday when the Ross County Board of Elections revealed that two Democrats, one of them an incumbent, and five Republicans have filed their petitions for the seat now held by Harold K. Claypool of Chillicothe, one of the two Democratic candidates.

Friday at 6:30 p. m. was the deadline for filing, congressional aspirants taking their petitions to Chillicothe, seat of the most densely populated county in the district.

The last minute filing of Robert L. Immell of Yellowbud for the Democratic nomination promises opposition for Claypool who had already filed. Mr. Immell said during the last week that he had not yet made up his mind concerning his candidacy, but when the deadline came for petitions to be filed he was on hand.

DALADIER MAY ALTER CABINET

Organization Better Fitted To Carry On Warfare May Be Announced Soon

PARIS, March 16—The cabinet of Premier Daladier was reported facing a major shakeup today.

After weathering two days of severe criticism during a secret session of the French senate, Premier Daladier was said to be contemplating the formation of a war cabinet better equipped to carry forward the war against Germany.

It was rumored Daladier may relinquish the office of war minister in favor of General Gustav Gamelin, now chief of the allied high command.

European Bulletins

LONDON — Finnish Minister Without Portfolio Juho Paasikivi, who was a member of the delegation which negotiated the Soviet-Finnish peace, has resigned, it was reported today in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Stockholm. The agency also said Finland's minister of national welfare, Rainer Von Fieandt, gave up his post.

BERLIN — One British patrol boat was sunk and a second was damaged badly by Nazi bombers reconnoitering over the North Sea, a German communique revealed today. The official bulletin said: "Nothing of particular happened on the Western Front. Air force planes reconnoitering over the North Sea attacked British patrol boats, sank one and seriously damaged another."

PARIS—Three German reconnaissance planes flew over eastern France despite poor weather, the French high command announced today. A war communique said the Western Front was calm and also enveloped in rain and fog. "There is nothing to report," the communique stated.

SCREEN ACTRESS, NOTED HUBBY-DIRECTOR SPLIT

HOLLYWOOD, March 16—Hollywood learned with surprise today that Dolores Del Rio, beautiful screen actress, had separated from her noted husband, Cedric Gibbons, art director at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Their separation was announced by Miss Del Rio, who declared: "After months of unhappiness, both Cedric and I have decided it is best to part. I have no intention of getting a divorce, but when marriage between two people becomes impossible, it is much wiser to say goodbye."

"We are parting good friends, and I think Cedric feels as badly as I do that we haven't been able to settle our difficulties."

U. S. Misses, Gains Citizens

THE stork cheated Uncle Sam out of gaining a new citizen and at the same time added another name to the list of native-born Americans when Mrs. Nick Futopolus of Greece was delivered of a child in Wichita, Kan. Just six hours before Mrs. Futopolus was to take her oath as a naturalized citizen she was rushed to the hospital and her child was born. Now she must wait six more months until the Wichita naturalization board meets again. But the child was born a citizen for its father has already been naturalized.

Georgia Governor Nabbed At Height of Bitter Feud

MACON, Ga., March 16—The spectacular feud between Gov. E. D. Rivers of Georgia and W. L. Miller, ousted chairman of the state highway board, blazed anew today following the governor's arrest by a federal marshal on a contempt of court citation.

Gov. Rivers was arrested last night as he left the stage of the Macon Auditorium, where he was a speaker before the Georgia Education Association.

GOTHAM IRISH MARCH, SELECT RABBI AS 'SON'

NEW YORK, March 16—This is not by way of being St. Patrick's Day a'tall and nobody but an Omadhaun would mistake the 16th of March for the 17th. However, be that as it may, this very day, praise be, the Irish of New York are turning out by the thousands for the annual march up Fifth Avenue.

There is no parade quite like the parade in honor of St. Patrick and by the same token there is no race quite like the Irish and to prove it they have made Rabbi Stephen S. Wise an honorary member of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. A slight difference in race or creed is a mere technicality to an Irishman provided your heart and your lungs are in the right place.

Moved a day ahead this year because St. Patrick's Day falls on Palm Sunday, the parade got under way at 1 p. m., with none other than the fighting Irish—the old 69th infantry—at its head.

The reviewing stand contains such synthetic Irishmen as Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia, Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti and District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey while Postmaster General James A. Farley and Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith represent the real brand.

The biggest parade in years, 45 battalions were to follow behind the 69th (now the 165th infantry) and the Rainbow Division veterans.

FINLAND CLOSES BOOK ON COSTLY WAR WITH SOVIET

HELSINKI, March 16—Finland's costly war with Soviet Russia was written into the country's history as a closed chapter today following a formal roll-call ratification of the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

In a routine formality several days after parliament had sanctioned the agreement framed by Premier Risto Rytty and other members of the government in Moscow, the diet last night ratified the treaty by a vote of 145 to 3.

Premier Rytty explained to parliament that his government had no choice but to accept Russia's dictated peace.

"Our country, like the whole of Europe and western civilization as well," he said, "is still in the greatest danger. None of us can say what tomorrow may bring."

CAROL GIVES UP FIGHT AGAINST ANTI-SEMITISTS

Germans Trying To Wean Balkan Country From Allied Orbit

BRITISH SHAKEUP AIRED

Cabinet Changes Rumored As Result Of Finnish, Soviet Peace Pact

By International News Service

Rumania reached the center of the European war of nerves and aggressive diplomacy today with Germany and Russia clamping intensified pressure on the Balkan monarchy to wean her completely away from the Anglo-French entente.

Bucharest dispatches revealed that King Carol has set aside his bitter fight to keep the pro-Nazi, anti-Semitic Iron Guard organization off Rumanian soil.

The king was reported to have reconciled himself to the Iron Guards even to the extent of withdrawing his decree of nearly a year ago outlawing members of the group as terrorists.

London reports went still further. They declared King Carol already has obtained a German guarantee of her frontiers against Soviet Russia, Hungary and Bulgaria. The Nazi Reich also was said to have secured the right to organize Rumania's youthful descendants of German minority residents.

The Russo-German shift toward the Balkans, and especially Rumania, dated from the Soviet-Finnish peace treaty which removed from the European scene a great barrier to the shipment of war supplies and goods from the Soviet Union to Germany.

OHIO SALES TAX REPORTS GO UP IN COUNTY AREA

Pickaway County retailers during the week ending March 2 did a large business if the report of the state treasurer's office on sale of prepaid sales tax can be used as a criterion.

The week grossed $1,728.20 compared with $993.87 during the same week a year ago. The week's total boosted receipts for the year to $11,858.98, ahead of 1939's $10,803.29.

MURDERER OF EX-HUBBY'S WIFE NOW IN HOSPITAL

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 16—Mrs. Maisie Walker Burleson, confessed slayer of her divorced husband's second wife, was under observation today in the state hospital for the insane.

Mrs. Burleson was committed to the hospital for 30 days by Circuit Judge G. Duncan Bellinger, who acted on the request of her counsel. Previously, City Physician P. E. Payne had stated in an affidavit that he believed Mrs. Burleson of unsound mind.

Thursday night a coroner's jury, after hearing witnesses relate how Mrs. Burleson shot and killed the wife of her former husband, Col. Richard C. Burleson, army artillery adviser at nearby Camp Jackson, in a Columbia Hotel cafeteria last Saturday, ordered her held for trial. By her commitment to the hospital, however, she will escape trial at the April 15 term of court.

NOBEL WINNER DIES

STOCKHOLM, March 16—Selma Lagerlof, grand dame of Swedish literature and a 1909 Nobel prize winner, died today at the age of 82. She was stricken with a cerebral hemorrhage at her Marbacka estate Thursday, and lapsed into a coma from which she never emerged.

CINCINNATI PATROLMAN WOUNDED BY SUSPECT

CINCINNATI, March 16—Shot below the heart, assertedly by a burglar suspect he attempted to seize, Patrolman Julius Mayer, 25, was in serious condition in General Hospital today. Police arrested Walter Whitaker, 28, a paroled convict and said they would file shooting with intent to kill charges against him.

School Court Tourney Near Final Session

Massillon, Canton, New Philadelphia, Dayton Fairview Remain; Amanda Eliminated By Glenford In Class B Competition

By Russell Fuller

COLUMBUS, March 16—Massillon, Canton McKinley, Dayton Fairview and New Philadelphia in Class A and New Carlisle, Smithfield, Glenford and Canfield in Class B today entered the semi-final rounds of the state high school basketball tournament.

But to many folk who witnessed yesterday's matches in the Fairgrounds Coliseum, the semi-finals were a mere aftermath to the greatest individual exhibition seen in a state tournament for years.

A young forward from Findlay by the name of Warren "bullet" Bell, made the basketball fairly sing as time and again he dribbled the length of the floor through a bewildered Canton McKinley five to slip one through the hoop.

Although Canton came from behind in the waning second to snare a 32 to 30 victory, Bell's exhibition left spectators and sports writers alike limp from sheer exhaustion at watching the dazzling display turned in by the Findlay forward. But more about that later. Today's semi-final pairings:

Class A—Massillon vs. Canton McKinley at 3 p. m. New Philadelphia vs. Dayton Fairview at 4 p. m. Class B—New Carlisle vs. Smithfield at 1 p. m. Glenford vs. Canfield at 2 p. m.

All Have Supporters

As the tournament entered its last day, the spectators felt that either Canton McKinley or New Philadelphia would cop the A title. The B fracas was a tossup, but the edge in the opinion of observers went to New Carlisle or Glenford. But Canfield and Smithfield had their supporters, so many in fact that the whole thing had to be rated a mad scramble.

Canton McKinley, undefeated during the season, was a likely choice to defeat Paul Brown's Massillon five. But in so doing, the Bulldogs will probably be drained of so much energy that their showing in the finals might lack the finesse to cop the title. New Philadelphia was a short favorite over Dayton Fairview.

McKinley met unexpected opposition in Findlay, or rather in Bell. Bell was the whole show. In the third quarter, this antics so worried the McKinley boys that they seemed in desperation.

When he dribbled, he seemed to pay no attention to his opponents, moving carefully down the floor, first drifting to the side, then back and across and finally breaking fast in one direction while the Bulldogs were looking for him somewhere else. He scored 18 points to bring his two game total to 38.

The score was knotted at five at the end of the first period. But Findlay held a 13 to 12 margin at the half. Bell made nine points in the third quarter to give Findlay a 25 to 20 lead at that time. But as the game drew to a close, Ryman, McKinley forward and Inman, McKinley negro forward, connected.

With the score 30 to 29 in Findlay's favor, Ryman hooped one from way out to put McKinley ahead 31 to 30. This won the game Inman's free throw only made the margin of victory two points instead of one. McKinley won the match mainly through the ability of Ryman and Guard Caines to connect with unerring accuracy from far out on the court.

YOUTHFUL STAR PACES COLORADO TO COURT TITLE

NEW YORK, March 16—With their sophomore star flashing the most valuable player award, the Golden Buffaloes of Colorado University today laid claim to the nation's basketball crown after capturing the national invitation tournament by topping Duquesne 51-40.

Fifteen thousand fans jammed Madison Square Garden to see the Buffaloes, winner of 16 out of 18 games this season, outsmart and outscore a brilliant Duquesne five that fought until the end against superior odds. After trailing 22-18 at half time, the Ducks knotted the count during the second half but couldn't withstand Colorado's closing drive. Bob Dole of the Buffaloes became the first sophomore ever to win the tourney's most valuable player trophy.

In an exciting preliminary game, the Oklahoma Aggies clinched third place in the tourney by nosing out De Paul 23-22.

Fairview Ace Quits Bed To Play; Crowd Expected

COLUMBUS, March 16—State high school basketball tournament

Kenny Huddleston, Dayton Fairview's ace center, was sick in bed with a cold all yesterday—but he got up to play in his team's winning struggle with Woodward.

Despite the snow and cold weather—attendance was gratifying to tournament officials—the 18,052 who have passed through the turnstiles thus far should be increased to 25,000 by tonight — Harold Olsen, Ohio State University basketball coach—said forward Warren "Bullet" Bell, Findlay, was one of the best prep players he had ever witnessed in action—Olsen has been watching scholastic tournaments since 1923—genial Mr. Olsen would be pleased indeed if the "Bullet" decided to enroll in Ohio State University—Bell graduates in June.

Gosnell Funeral Home Five To Meet Newark Gasco In Feature

CLOSE GAME IN BOOK

Club Officials Hoping For Large Attendance At Last Session

Circleville Athletic Club officials were hoping Saturday that a large crowd would be present for the final session of their second annual independent basketball tournament scheduled for Saturday evening. Friday night's games brought out some of the finest basketball to be played on the Club court this year, but the attendance figure was not up to expectations.

In the finals tonight will be the Gosnell Funeral Home of Columbus and the Newark Gasco quintet. A preliminary will start at 7:30 o'clock, the championship game to be at 8:30.

The Gosnell Funeral Home knocked off the Columbus Federal Glass 43 to 37 in a ding-dong affair that saw the score always close. The winners held an 18-16 lead at halftime, and really turned on in the second half although the Federals matched their play right up to the end of the game.

The more evenly balanced Federal Home team carried off the victory, however.

Newark Gasco, paced by Axline, former Zanesville star, and Buddy Mercer, ace of the 1938 Newark championship team, held a seven points edge over the scrappy Chillicothe City Club team at halftime, but was forced to battle for every point in the final half before coming out ahead.

Cropp, Chillicothe's left handed hook shot artist, kept his club in the ball game with some nifty shooting. In a preliminary the Wyandott C. A. C. of Columbus won from Stout's Pure Oils, 29-28 in an overtime contest.

WOODRUFF WINS BRASS RING AS WEEK'S ATHLETE

By International News Service
John Youle Woodruff, graduate of Pittsburgh University and post-graduate student at New York University, draws the little brass ring this week for breaking all existing records for the 800 meters and 880 yards over the Dartmouth University track.

Long John—he is six feet four—used that amazing nine-foot stride of his to eat up yardage with such seeming ease as to make his record smashing performance seem no special effort at all.

Running with his usual dead pan expression, the big fellow from South Connelville, Pa. breezed through the first quarter in 54 seconds and then went through the second in 53.7—a great tribute to his judgment of even pace.

On the way to the half mile record in 1:47.7, he also established new figures for the 800 meters in 1:47.

Heretofore, John has been no ball of fire on the boards for two reasons: first, because he has been known as a lazy runner and, second, because most indoor tracks with their sharp turns, have hampered him.

But with his mind set on a new world record and running on the large Dartmouth track, the big fellow showed what he could do if given the incentive.

John won the 800 meter Olympic championship for us in 1936. He won the I. C. 4-A titles for the quarter and half mile three straight years while at Pitt and he hasn't been beaten over the half mile route outdoors in the last four years.

A marvelous running machine is John and when he finishes his current courses in sociology he should make a great instructor and coach at some college.

About This And That In Many Sports

Orchids go to Coach Trevor

Jones of Amanda for sending his splendid cagers into the quarter-finals of the state basketball tournament. . . . Too bad the Amanda lads had to lose to Glenford in Friday's games, but many in the coliseum believe that Glenford has a better chance to cop the title than would Amanda have had if the team had won its game. . . . Nolan Swackhammer, Glenford coach, is a Laurelville product, an ex-Ohio U. star and a grand guy. . . . Amanda lost three ball games during the year and Glenford was the top team in each of them. . . . The first was by four points, the second by two points and the third—the tourney tilt—by three points, 43-40. . . . With six minutes to play Amanda held a six point lead, but just couldn't get past the Shrider cousins, Dick and Herb, the former an All-Ohio selection and a worthy one. . . . He's bound for Ohio U. if his coach has anything to do with it.

Amanda's success is certainly a story of team play, the Fairfield boys playing without an individual star, all the boys contributing to the club's success. . . . Only two boys will be lost next year, Ted Clevenger and Herb Lutz, forward and guard. . . . Hiatt, Christy and Young will be back and McDonald and Pontius are on hand to replace the pair that are moving on. . . .

Circleville High Tigers went to the state tournament Saturday as guests of the Kiwanis Club, 10 boys and Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong being taken along. . . . The group, in charge of Dan McClain, will see after noon and evening sessions, getting a lunch between times at the expense of the Kiwanians. . . . Ashville's cagers were feted Friday evening by the Parent-Teacher Association, a large crowd being present and a big time being had by all. . . .

Cincinnati Woodward could have put an entire Negro team on the court Friday evening, five colored boys being carried on the squad, and all of them plenty good, too. . . . The team possessed more showmanship than has any other team in the tourney to date, but couldn't muster enough points to oust the well-rounded Dayton Fairview club. . . . The Canton McKinley-Massillon game set for Saturday afternoon should be a ding-dong affair. . . . Natural rivals, the schools are, and McKinley has won two ball games so far this year from the Tigers, the last in an overtime joust. . . . If Canton wins you can bet a nickel the team will not be in the best of shape for the finals tonight. . . .

Many tourney followers believe that McKinley will win this afternoon in one bracket and Dayton Fairview in the other over New Philadelphia. . . . The Philly Quakers are the most aggressive boys in the tournament, but they lack the height and finesse of the Daytonites. . . . The Quakers, with a large crowd of fans present and their finely-bedecked band almost took possession of the coliseum Friday eve. . . . Incidentally that band of about 75 pieces was sent to the tournament Thursday by the Band Mothers' Association, an organization of mothers of the youngsters in the outfit, with expenses paid, hotel bills taken care of and transportation provided, without a penny's expense to the boys and girls who comprise it. . . . New Philly did not lose a football game last fall and neither has it lost a basketball game in 23 starts so far this year. . . . Best boys on the Philly team are Glenn Barker, forward, and Jack Castagnola, guard, the latter a ball handling wizard. . . . Bronco Reese, the other forward, is 6 feet 2, weighs 216 and plays fullback on the football team. . . . His sub is Leo Benjamin, 6 feet 1, 212 and an end offensively and fullback defensively on the grid. . . . The latter, rated by college scouts as the best prospect on the Philly grid team, is ticketed for Ohio State, so says Sid Gilman. . . .

MAKI SETS NEW MARK IN MILE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 16—Taisto Maki, world's foremost distance runner, was credited with a new world's record today.

The flashing Finn, making his second appearance in a transcontinental tour, won a special three-mile match race at the University of Chicago fieldhouse last night in 14 minutes, 1.9 seconds, finishing three-quarters of a lap in front of Tommy Deckard, former Indiana University star.

Maki's time was six seconds slower than the mark of 13:55.9 established recently by Gregory Rice of Notre Dame, but it was claimed to be a new world's record for three miles of dirt footing. Rice's mark is the world's indoor record for the distance on a board track.

Outdoors, Maki has run three miles in 13:42.4, and this mark now is up for acceptance as the world's record.

Long, lean girls, according to a physician's research, are likelier to succeed in tennis than in swimming.

CHURCHES OF DISTRICT ARRANGING SPECIAL PROGRAMS FOR HOLY WEEK

Union Rites To Be Held Friday At 2

Sermon Subjects Announced By Some Ministers; Others Have Other Services

With Palm Sunday one day off and Easter one week away, churches throughout the county and several in Circleville will hold Holy week services every night of the coming week.

The Union Service of the Calvary Evangelical, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal and United Brethren Churches will be held at the United Brethren Church this year on Good Friday from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Services will be held every evening at the Trinity Lutheran, United Brethren and First Methodist Churches. Each has planned special services and music for the week.

The Rev. A. N. Gruesser of the United Brethren Church will deliver the following sermons through the week: Sunday, "The Triumphant Entry"; Monday, "The Temple Cleansed"; Tuesday, "Christ's Authority Challenged"; Wednesday, "Silence and Prayer"; Thursday, "Holy Communion"; Friday, United Service.

Luther League pantomimes and special choir music will add to the beauty of the services at the Trinity Lutheran Church. The program of the church for the week's sermons is as follows: Tuesday, "Shall I with Pilate Condemn Him To Death?"; Wednesday, "Shall I With the Jews Crucify My King?"; Thursday, "Coming to the Lord's Table Worthily"; Good Friday afternoon, "Behold! The Bleeding and Dying King"; Good Friday Communion service at 7:30 p. m.

The Junior Choir will start the week's services at the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening. Their selections are "There is a Green Hill" and "Fairest Lord Jesus". On Wednesday evening the Epworth League will lead the singing and Rev. C. F. Bowman will preach on "The Power of Meekness".

Thursday evenings service will be dedicated to administering the Sacrament of Holy Communion. "Seven Words From The Cross" will be the theme of the Friday service.

Services in the three churches will start at 7:30 p. m.

AMANDA

Mrs. Purley Williamson and daughters, Cynthia and Bernice May, were Tuesday callers at the John Boelter home. They also called on Mrs. James Morrison and baby daughter, Betty Jean.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Christy and son, Joe, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Kinser and daughter, Vivian, of Lancaster were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phillip.

Calvary—Triumph Through Sacrifice ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 26:57-27:56

The morning after Jesus was betrayed by Judas, the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Him to put Him to death, and they bound Him and delivered Him to Pontius Pilate, the governor.

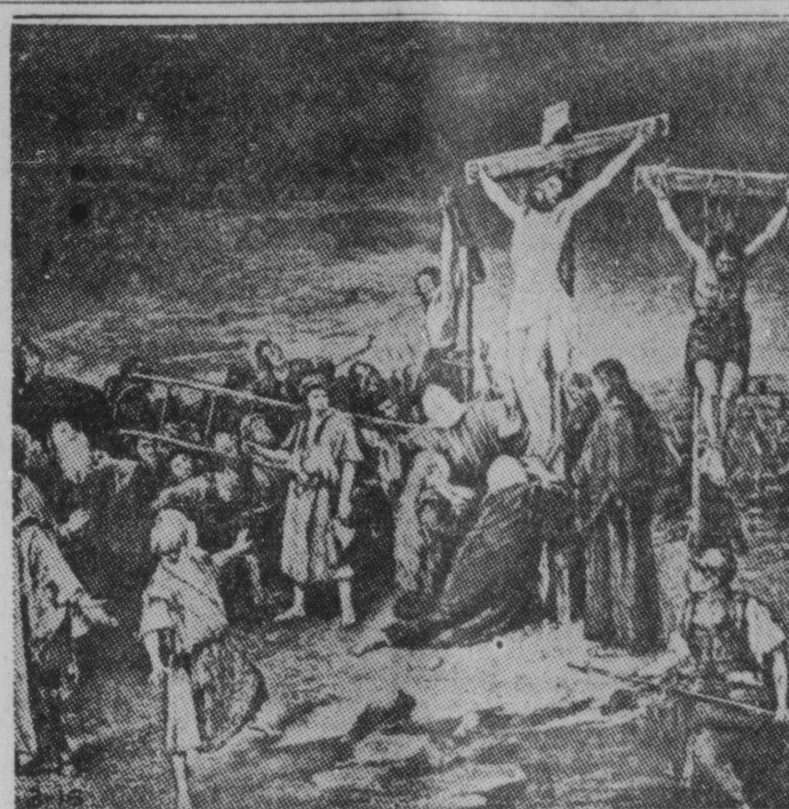

In the meantime, Judas, when he saw Christ condemned, repented, brought the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, confessing, "I have sinned," and then went out and hanged himself.

Pilate questioned the Lord, but could find no fault with Him, and told the populace, but they cried, "Crucify Him, crucify Him!" Pilate then washed his hands before them to show that he was innocent of His death.

The soldiers then took Jesus, put a scarlet robe on Him, a crown of thorns on His head and a reed in His hand, and mocked Him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" (GOLDEN TEXT—Isa. 53:3)

A housing expert calculates that if all the United States employables could find jobs, the lower income third of the people would no longer be ill-fed or ill-clothed, but would still be ill-housed. According to statistics, 80 percent of farmhouses are sub-standard, and a third of city dwelling units are a hazard to health and decency.

"ALL that can be said against us," says Finnish Foreign Minister Tanner sadly, "is that as a nation we are too small."

Ancient Israel was small in the great days when it made history.

Greece was no bigger than Finland when Xenophon's 10,000 men licked a million Persians and Athenian civilization lighted up the world.

England was a little nation in the great days of Elizabeth, Shakespeare, Bacon and Drake.

Goliath was bigger than David, but what of it?

The Finns are not licked. We'll be hearing from them again.

FOREIGN TRADE

A PROMINENT American economist, asked whether the American standard of living could be maintained or increased by limiting foreign trade, replies:

"Every major country has experienced, since the World War, a lower standard of living every time its foreign trade suffered restrictions."

This is a truth that Americans are slow to learn, but gradually the idea seems to be taking hold. There has never been much difference of opinion about it among economists. The change comes from people in general gradually realizing that nations, like states, cities and individuals, can't prosper without exchanging their goods and services, that international trade can't run in one direction only—that exporting and importing are two sides of the same process.

It doesn't mean "free trade", of course. No nation believes or practices that extreme doctrine any more. It merely means buying abroad enough of the things we want so that the foreigners can buy from us what we have to sell.

There seems to be, in the international exchange of goods and services, something like the healthful circulation of blood in the human body.

WRECKS AT CROSSINGS

A SUBURBAN community, checking on traffic accidents within its town limits, made a surprising discovery. A fine boulevard system runs through the area, and all intersections are well marked and protected with signal lights. Accidents there ought to be few.

Yet police records showed that many accidents took place at traffic lights because drivers often did one of two crazy things. Some watched lights only instead of keeping an eye on other drivers, and so got hit by the careless fellow. Some tried to beat the light, and they did the hitting.

This is just plain foolishness. A good driver and properly placed and working lights make a combination to eliminate accidents at intersections. It is inexcusable to cause smash-ups there.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Lingered over the breakfast coffee, reading with increased horror of the terms imposed on little Finland by mighty Russia. Was there ever a better argument in behalf of preparedness? Maybe the cases of Ethiopia, Albania, Austria, China, Czechoslovakia, Poland, et al were as good. Nice people, we of this modern civilization.

Noted an increase in garden seed sales about the village, and heard a wren in the back yard. Reminded of necessity for building a wren house that will be cat proof. Saw the new general community fire truck at the station and Chief Wise explained all the gadgets, of which there are many. A fine piece of apparatus, and one that should save its cost several times over in the course of a year. The city is getting one just like it and then we will have fire protection better than ever.

Received an invitation to speak before the county Ministerial Association which would be as difficult an assignment as a newspaperman could face. Have you to see the working scrivener who can make a speech. We all think better sitting down, if at all. Imagine getting up before more than a score of trained orators with no more orating equipment than I have at command? Hope I am able to duck that one, not because I do not like to talk to ministers, but because I prefer to talk to them informally and one at a time. I think I have never talked to one yet without learning something.

And speaking of pastors reminds me that the Rev. Robert Kelsey recently went to the other side of Columbus on a speaking engagement and locked his keys inside his car. He had to telephone home and have his extra key brought to him. Then his father-in-law heard about it and sent to the popular young minister express, collect, a great box of old keys of all sorts, the express bill being something more than $1.50. A fine father-in-law, really.

LET-DOWN OF FINLAND CLEAR

WASHINGTON—Now that artillery fire has departed from the battlefields of Finland, the Allies are getting an almost panic-stricken picture of what that defeat means to them.

For when the history of this world war is written, probably the let-down of Finland can be placed beside the British sabotage of the Spanish Republic as the war's two major catastrophes.

The surrender of Finland means not so much a triumph for Soviet Russia as for Germany. It means that the remainder of Finland now will be welded together for self-protection in an economic alliance with Sweden and Norway. And most important of all it means that all Scandinavia will come under the direct domination, if not the control, of Germany.

In fact, Nazi Germany is working overtime right now, and has been for the past two weeks, to create a sort of United States of North Europe—Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark, all cooperating in the closest manner economically, and perhaps politically, with the Reich. That is why Dr. Schacht, Germany's economic genius, arrived in Stockholm exactly one day after Finnish peace was signed.

This means that another vital area of Europe becomes alienated from the British, just as the downfall of the Spanish Republic meant that British influence vanished from one vital area of the Mediterranean.

CHAPTER BY CHAPTER

To get the complete picture of British muddling, one must go back to the start of the Finnish war last November. Here is the history, chapter by chapter:

CHAPTER 1. Finland was dickering with Russia for a settlement without war. While Finnish envoys were in Moscow, the British press urged an unyielding front against Russia, British diplomats patted Finland on the back, gave her every encouragement to resist Stalin's demand for territory and naval bases.

CHAPTER 2.—The war started. Finland appealed to Britain for planes. Lord Halifax explained that Great Britain could not afford to risk offending a friendly country—Russia.

CHAPTER 3.—As Finland stood her ground, and as the war dragged past Christmas, the British and French began sending planes surreptitiously into Finland. But there was no open support.

CHAPTER 4.—On February 7 Premier Daladier and Prime Minister Chamberlain met in Paris. By that time confidential military reports from Finland indicated clearly that the Finns could not last much longer. More than equipment, they needed replacements. Their men were worn out.

ALLIED HELP DELAYED

Daladier proposed that Britain and France undertake an expeditionary force through Sweden to Finland immediately. He said that French troops were ready, but no expeditionary force could move without the British fleet.

Neville Chamberlain said he would take the matter under advisement.

CHAPTER 5.—On February 8 the Swedes, long worried over the encroachment of Russia, informed the French and British that they would cooperate with an Allied expeditionary force. The Swedes went even further, said that since it would take some days for the British and French

Why Do You Fear the Dentist?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Why do we fear the dentist?

This has been the cause of an intensive investigation. Dentists are very much interested in it and no general formula can be arrived at. The following questions were asked a group:

Do you fear actual pain? Do you fear unexpected pain? Do you fear the sound or vibration of dental instruments?

In general, people reply in the negative to all these questions, but at the same time cannot pin themselves down to what they exactly do fear about dentists. The best we can say is that in spite of all the improvements in dental technique, people do fear the dentist and neglect visiting him, to their own detriment. If they could overcome this and go earlier, they would probably suffer less.

Mental Attitude and Blood Pressure

Has the mental attitude any relation to high blood pressure?

Yes; in a study of the role of personality in high blood pressure states, it has been found by Bemie, of Baltimore, that an unstable personality make-up, existing over a lifetime, has much to do with high blood pressure, especially in variations in pressure. So much is this true that, in many cases, he believes willingness to deal with the personality features may offer the only effective tool in the way of treatment.

Why Mother's Milk Is Best for Baby

Why should mother's milk be any better for a new-born baby than a well-imitated preparation of other animals' milk?

Brennemann stated that "The milk of every mammal is specific for its young. To this, man is no exception. There is, furthermore, evidence that the milk of one mammal is not only imperfectly adapted to the young of other mammals but that there is even something harmful in nonspecific milk. . . . While it may eventually prove to be largely, or wholly, a matter of chemistry, there is reason to believe there is also an intangible biologic factor. . . . That an apparently perfect nutritional result can be obtained without breast milk is a matter of daily observation. That the apparent result may not be real is possible, even probable."

Of course, present-day experience shows that many artificial mixtures are perfectly competent nutritionally, but it is still the firm belief of pediatricians that a preliminary period, if only for a month or six weeks, of breast feeding is highly desirable to start the new-born child on its way in the world.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. T.: "What causes a small swelling on the lower gum? Look like small blisters. No pain. No pus."

Answer—Probably canker sores or from infected teeth. Treatment: Clean the teeth, use alkali, sodium bicarbonate, by mouth.

THE KILLER SPEAKS

RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

I, Bill Strickland, am suspected in the murder of my friend, Alfred Markham, rich young jeweler, at a party in the Rio Vista clubhouse. Searching the garden for a knife I had dropped, hoping to find it before the police did, I am attacked in the dark, kidnapped, taken by boat to a deserted riverfront warehouse.

CHAPTER EIGHT

AFTER A DOZEN or more steps in the darkness a faint light appeared to the left. We turned toward it and came to the bottom of a stairway at the top of which was a window with the moonlight streaming through. My captor poked me from behind to indicate that I was to climb.

There were cobwebs on the walls and dust on the steps. We sounded like a cat and a horse—I in my bare feet and the boatman in his heavy shoes.

At the top of the stairs we found a second flight, going up to another floor. The building here was not as ruinous as it appeared in its lower regions, for on this second stairway there were no cobwebs and the dust had been swept clean.

We came into a great warehouse room, dimly lighted on one side by many windows and piled high with boxes and sacks that threw black, mysterious shadows. The indescribable odor of onions and potatoes and straw pervaded the place. Through the windows I saw the tops of trees growing on the river levee.

My captor, who had not yet spoken a word, pushed me to a pile of sacks, ripped the gag from my mouth, and gave me a shove that dropped me on top of them, face down, with my hands still tied behind me. He knotted a rope swiftly around my bare ankles. It was a hard rope, and hurt.

When his footsteps retreated I rolled over and strained my ears to listen. He was among the sacks and boxes at the far end of the huge room. There seemed to be no one else in the place. The next moment the sound of a door opening and the click of its latch as it closed, told me I was alone.

The stillness was complete, except for the throbbing in my head. I felt the warmth of blood trickling down over my forehead. It collected on my eyebrows.

I struggled with my bonds. My efforts were of no use. My hands were numb. I could not tell what I was doing with my fingers. The ropes around my ankles only cut deeper as I tried to loosen them.

I gave up, and lay still, trying to think. I was in a desperate plight. My absence from the clubhouse would probably convince the police that I was guilty of Alfred Markham's murder, and had fled.

Perhaps that was the purpose of this kidnapping, to increase the suspicion against me—if my captor had been afraid the police would suspect him.

What had this huge boatman been doing in the garden by the clubhouse? What did he know about the murder?

The questions sent such a throbbing through my head that I resolutely stared out the windows and tried to make my mind a blank. Then I closed my eyes and lay back on the sacks, knowing I must conserve my strength.

Dawn could not be far off, I told myself.

Hours passed. The windows were tinged with the pink of the sunrise, driving the shadows back. Still my captor did not return.

Once or twice there was the sound of a rat scurrying across the floor or rattling in one of the boxes. I was very thirsty.

I began to wonder if the boatman intended me to lie here until I was found by the rightful owners of the place when they came to work. My heart leaped when a door opened and heavy footsteps approached across the floor behind me. But it was the boatman again, I decided from a view of the long hairy arm that came around the corner of the sacks and set a bowl of soup on the floor near me. Now that it was daylight he was careful to keep out of sight.

The newspaper had fallen so that I could read the headlines.

Two buns and a newspaper were dropped beside the bowl. Then the footsteps withdrew and the door opened and closed.

The soup looked inviting. I rolled over and worked my face toward it, which was difficult with my wrists and ankles tied. It was even more difficult to suck up the soup once I reached it, but I managed somehow and also got several bites out of the buns before they rolled so on the floor that there was no longer a clean place on them. I rolled back toward the sacks, where I could rest my aching head again.

The newspaper had fallen so that I could read the headlines: "YOUNG JEWELER STABBED TO DEATH"

I sat up, the ache forgotten. A beam of sunlight was slanting down on the type. By leaning forward a little I had no difficulty in reading it:

"Alfred Markham, prominent young jeweler of Seventh avenue, was stabbed to death shortly after 11 o'clock last night during a dinner dance at the exclusive Rio Vista club," the account began.

"William Strickland, portrait painter, also a member of the club, disappeared under mysterious circumstances shortly after admitting to the police that he had been quarreling with Markham in the rear garden of the club ten minutes before the body was found there by Jerry Montclair and John St. Clair, president of the club."

"Markham conducted a jewelry shop at 645 Seventh avenue. He was 32 years old, unmarried and considered one of the most eligible bachelors in the local social set."

"Police were searching for Strickland throughout the river district this morning. No clue had been located by the time this paper went to press."

"The disappearance of Strickland is doubly puzzling because of the fact that he had established an almost perfect alibi, Captain of Detectives Clyde McDonald said. Strickland had been seen to go upstairs while Markham was standing alone in the garden and apparently had not come down again until after the body was found lying beside the lily pond in the garden in the rear court.

"Markham had been stabbed from the front with a blow of great force, according to Coroner James Silver, who advanced the theory that the assailant had been talking or quarreling with his victim and therefore was an acquaintance. The body had been dragged several yards, as was shown by marks on the walk where it was lying face upward."

"No weapon could be found, except a pocket knife said to belong to Strickland. It was lying in the grass by the rose arbor a few feet from the body."

"A broken and bloodied croquet mallet also lay near the body. There also was blood on the railing at the end of the rose arbor. A short stool which guests at the party testified had been in the corner of the rose arbor earlier in the evening, was missing."

"These were the major clues uncovered by Coroner Silver and Captain McDonald in their short investigation last night, they reported. They left the garden under guard and directed the search for Strickland, expecting to go over the scene of the crime more thoroughly today."

"Strickland vanished a few minutes after going upstairs while the investigation which he had volunteered to assist was in progress. He is 31 years old, five feet 11 inches tall, with brown hair and blue eyes, of athletic build and was dressed in a tuxedo. He resides in his studio at 644 Laurel street. No relatives are known. He has been a member of the club about one year. Little is known of his previous history."

"Markham was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Markham of 799 Fairview plaza. He is survived by a brother, George Markham of Bellingham, who was notified of the death last night and is expected to arrive here some time today. There is a sister, Louise Markham, of Banta."

"The body is now in the Currier undertaking parlors. Time of the inquest will be announced today, unless Strickland is still missing, in which case the inquest may be delayed, Coroner Silver says."

The paper trembled in front of my eyes. I shut them, breathing heavily. Yes, it looked bad for me—very bad. The police had found my knife. They believed I had fled.

Mix or Match 'em

YOU MAY mix your red and pinks or match them. We saw a red straw sailor with a large pink rose we liked the other day, the colors singing a duet. If today's picture were reproduced in color, the effect would be quite different: bag, jewelry, lipstick and nail lacquer would all be a hot pink, a dashing accent for the soft grey wool jacket dress and grey beret. Don't imagine, though, that all shades containing red go together... purplish lipstick and firemen's red polish definitely quarrel. Don't become bored, either, by color-matching. At times you'll want to match lipstick and polish to a scarf only, or perhaps to a boutonniere or bow in your hair. The point is, it's easy to achieve harmony in our costumes these days with cosmetics and designers working hand in hand.

CLUB DISCUSSES COMING ACTIVITY

Hi-Y meeting this week was called to order by President Gale Hitchcock at 7:30 in the high school building.

At the meeting the club decided to have a return party for the Senior Girl Reserves and the Hi-Y of Pickaway high school. The Senior Girl Reserves of Circleville are also invited. This party will be held April 12 at the high school building.

Hulse Hays conducted an open discussion during the evening on the typical girl. Loren Pace was adviser at the meeting in place of Thomas Armstrong, who was absent because of business.

Mrs. Thaddeus Cromley of near Ashville was a Friday visitor in Circleville.

Miss Dorothy Watkins of Columbus and Donald Tucker of New Lexington were Thursday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Magill and family of Seyfert Avenue.

Mrs. Marcus Rife, Miss May Katherine Rife and Shirley Spung of Walnut Township were Friday shoppers in Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Arledge of near Stoutsville were business visitors in Circleville, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ward and son, Donald, of near East Ringgold were Friday visitors in Circleville.

Miss Twyla Patrick of Tariton was a Friday shopper in Circleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Huston of near Stoutsville were business visitors in Circleville, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Carmean and daughter, Margie, of Deercreek Township were Circleville visitors, Friday.

Mrs. Harley Lutz of Whisler shopped in Circleville, Friday.

Mrs. Marvin Steeley of Washington Township was a Friday shopper in Circleville.

Today's Garden-Graph

Just as potted bulbs and branches of flowering shrubs are forced to provide early blossoms indoors, so, too, can an interesting woods garden be enjoyed by stealing a march on spring. You can bring indoors a section of moss-covered log and force it with warmth and water to divulge whatever plant secrets it may hold.

As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, select a moss-covered piece of party rotted log having tiny ferns growing out of it, or by chance, some other woods material such as hemlock or pine seedlings. After being brought indoors and placed in a container where it will have moisture together with the warmth of the room, the piece of log will reward you for this care by shooting out interesting greenery.

It is best to place the piece of log in a container in which enough water can be kept to keep the wood constantly moist. As the ferns and other forms of greenery appear and make growth, an occasional feeding of prepared plant food can be added to the water.

PUPILS SEE MOVIE

A full length motion picture, "Bring 'em Back Alive" starring Frank Buck, was shown Monday in assembly to high school and grade pupils. The picture showed Mr. Buck's adventures with the wild life, especially animals, of Africa.

JR. CAST HOLDS DAILY PRACTICE FOR "JUNE MAD"

During the last week the junior class play cast has been rehearsing daily after school or in the evening for "June Mad".

This play concerns the troubles of Penny Wood's first love. Penny is a fifteen old "tomboy", absolutely uninterested in boys. Then Roger Van Vleck, a man of the world, comes to visit the Woods, and Penny experiences her first pangs of "puppy love".

Troubles arise when Julie, the girl friend of Penny's Uncle Mervyn, attracts the attentions of Roger. The audience will be amused by Penny's efforts to obtain a red party dress. Other complications arise but one must see the play to learn the outcome.

Samuel R. Johnson, dramatics director, announced Tuesday that new curtains have been ordered for the auditorium. They are expected to be here in time for this presentation.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the junior class. Tickets will go on reserve, at a local business establishment to be announced later, on Monday, March 25.

JUNIOR RESERVE HAS BAKE SALE

Plans for the bake sale were completed by the Junior Girl Reserves Monday at their regular meeting.

This bake sale was held this morning in a down-town business establishment.

During the program Monday, Robert Goeller and Hulse Hays of the Hi-Y club spoke to the girls on the "Ideal Girl" and what boys looked for when dating a girl.

Hulse Hays placed girls in three classifications: first, those that are too easy to date; second, those who are discriminating but at the same time not "high hat"; and third the girls who are too shy and retiring to enjoy themselves. Most boys prefer the girls in the second group because they are fairly hard to get and yet worth dating. He also said that common sense was all important when a girl dresses, applies makeup, attends dances and social affairs and when dating boys.

Miriam Brown and Mary Lou Koeheliser gave the girls' opinion of the "Ideal Boy". The entire club agreed that a boy should be clean, neat and courteous at all times.

MUSICIANS HEAR SYMPHONIC BAND

Several members of the band attended the concert given by the O. S. U. Symphonic Band in the boys' gymnasium at the university Sunday, March 10. Manley R. Whitcomb, assistant director to Eugene Weigel, conducted the concert. The program consisted of eight semi-classical numbers, after which the band played two encores.

Concerning our own band uniforms, C. F. Zaenglein and the members of the "uniform committee" report they are all making their final selection this week. Mr. Zaenglein states that the uniforms must be ready for use by the first week in April in anticipation of the coming festivals and concerts.

"Our fellow citizens will notice, when the band appears in coming parades, the presence of two instruments which add color to any band," said Mr. Zaenglein. He announced that two sets of glockenspiels (bells) will be at the head of the band in the near future. Katherine Betts is furnishing her own while the school plans to purchase a set which Ruth Blum will play.

STOOGES READY FOR ANNUAL HOP

The regular Stogie meeting was held Tuesday evening at the home of Frank Davis Jr.

At this meeting further plans were made for the annual Stogie dance to be held in the Memorial Hall, April 5. It was decided by the club that Bill Kessler and his orchestra will furnish the music. Although this orchestra is from Lancaster, several members are from the vicinity of Circleville. Decorations this year will be done by Richard Martin.

Gale Hitchcock is in charge of having tickets printed. Mrs. Frank Davis and Tom Harden will take charge of refreshments.

Tickets may be purchased from any Stogie member. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 12:00.

JUNIOR B TEAM CLINCHES TITLE

This week the intramural league crown went to the Junior B team for the second consecutive year.

Though one more round is still to be played, the Sophomore A aggregation lost any mathematical chance of a tie by losing to the Sophomore B crew by a score of 21-20 while the Juniors were defeating a hapless Junior A outfit, 57-14.

In the first two games the Seniors overcame the eighth grade by a 30-22 count. The graders were led by Coach Black and Eugene Hampp with six and eight points respectively. Hancel Warner had 10 points to lead the seniors.

Due to MacAbee and Griffey's exit from the game via the foul route, the Freshman B outfit was compelled to forfeit to the Freshman A team. The Frosh was ahead at the time—25-3.

On Wednesday the first contest was the intra-Sophomore class battle. The contest was one of the closest of the year. A foul shot won the contest for the B team in the last minute.

A highly favored Junior B team swamped a Junior A team to win the pennant. Martin had 14 points to pace the winners and Koehel-sparger had six counters to lead the losers. Coffland and Brintlinger were ejected from the game for roughness.

EDITORIAL MUSIC

Music is probably the most revered and best loved of the arts. It reaches the lowest ranks of uneducated people as well as those who know and understand the opera.

There are many types of music from which, by our mental make-up and likes and dislikes, we select the type which we prefer. Some people choose folk tunes or religious hymns, some like concerts, symphonies, operas and chamber music; others like "hill billy" melodies; while still others like popular swing songs and lastly, the one that almost everyone loves, the band. The band is a symbol of fellowship and organized musical talent.

Have you ever visited a community park in a city where the band was giving a concert? Have you ever watched a parade? Do you marvel at the way a member of a band can march, keep in step with others, and still read correctly the music that he is playing? Do you, when you see and hear your band become excited and proud to say, "That's our band?"

If you have not experienced the joy of hearing your band you are missing something. Imagine how would you feel if you were a member of a band and your audience did not appreciate your effort. It would make you feel discouraged and as if you never wanted to play again.

If you have not attended band concerts in the past, I suggest that you plan to come to at least one of the future concerts and enjoy with your classmates and the public, music that is ours.

FOURTH GRADING PERIOD AT END; 20 RANK FIRST

The principal's office disclosed Thursday, that in connection with the fourth periodic grade cards, distributed Wednesday, 55 pupils made grades which entitled them to places on the C. H. S. "honor roll". In order to obtain a berth on this recognition sheet a pupil must have a grade average of 3.2; 3.7 for the first honor roll.

In figuring pupils' averages grades in major subjects are classified in the following manner—A, 4; B, 3; C, 2; D, 1; and F, 0. In number of class members placing on this period's honor list, the totals run parallel with class ranks—the senior class supplied 18 honor pupils, the juniors 16, the sophomores 13 and the freshman eight.

Of the total of 55, 20 are on the first honor roll and the remaining 35 on the lower list. Eight Circleville pupils are listed as having a perfect point average of 4, which denotes a straight A report card.

Following is a list of those pupils whose grades are recognized as being worthy of places on the "honor roll".

to reach Finland, they, the Swedes, would send troops immediately if assured that later the British and French would back them up.

This Chamberlain also took under advisement.

Chapter 6—By mid-February, the Finns were giving ground steadily before renewed Russian onslaughts. But Chamberlain still was advising with his Cabinet.

By mid-February, also the Germans had heard of the Allied plan for an expeditionary force through the Scandinavian countries, and had warned Sweden against it. This put the Swedes in a tough spot.

However, Sweden still stood by her position. She informed the Allies that if they would send a full-fledged expeditionary force, Sweden would permit its passage across her territory and cooperate fully. But if the Allies only sent dribbles of volunteers, then Sweden could not cooperate. For this would only mean risking German displeasure without Allied protection.

STILL UNDER ACHIEVEMENT

Meanwhile the French prepared to send troops. The British also placed their north Scottish embarkation ports under a shroud of secrecy, as if they also were preparing to send troops. But nothing happened. Chamberlain had the matter under advisement.

Chapter 7—Almost one month later, March 10, Finland, exhausted, sent peace envoys to Moscow.

Next day Prime Minister Chamberlain appeared in the House of Commons to announce that France and Great Britain would "proceed immediately and jointly to help Finland" with "all the available resources at their disposal"—if Finland asked for help.

Simultaneously, word was passed out from Allied sources that Finland was talking with Moscow merely to make the British realize the gravity of the situation, and bring help from them. In going to Moscow, London whispered, the Finns were bluffing.

Chapter 8—Next day the Finns signed a peace treaty. They were not bluffing. They were all in. (Note—Most interested observer of the above history is reported to be King Carol of Rumania, next victim of the Russo-German squeeze.)

FOOD LABELING

It might be difficult to sell produce the lot and the outlook of the disabled child. Yet there is a kind of service not rendered by any public agency which depends almost entirely upon funds raised by a popular subscription. In Ohio the success of the federal and state programs depend on the measure of cooperation which the Ohio Society for Crippled Children is able to give and the crippled children seal like the anti-tuberculosis seal offers a convenient method whereby the public can participate in this work without leaving the heavy part of the financial burden upon a few particularly interested benefactors.

Everyone can afford to buy at least a few of these seals and every penny that is spent for a seal is just that much toward buying a happy life and a useful life for some boy or girl who deserves a break.

I urge my friends and their friends to avail themselves of the first opportunity to buy crippled children seals and to use them to advertise this most worthy and potentially profitable cause. The cause of every child who is handicapped by physical disability.

I am confident that the sale of seals will be a success and that the Ohio Society for Crippled Children will thereby be able to continue its splendid service to these children and to the state of Ohio; an organization that has done so much for the crippled children. Buy crippled children seals so that these children may be given an opportunity to enjoy the same birthright you and I have enjoyed.

VOICE ...of the... PEOPLE

EASTER SEALS

As we approach this joyous Easter time with its theme of birth, life and hope, and as we see nature unfolding all of its beauty and color, it is inspiring to know that the International Society for Crippled Children, its affiliated state societies and local chapters have selected this joyous season for the annual sale of crippled children seals.

And it is a genuine pleasure to lend my hand in the campaign for the sale of crippled children throughout the state of Ohio and I am grateful for this opportunity to say these few words in regard to this campaign.

In connection with the activities of the Circleville Rotary Club, I have been interested in the cause of crippled children for many years and I am happy to say that my fellow Rotarians have always manifested a generous interest in every phase of this movement which is aimed at relieving unnecessary suffering and providing opportunities for the handicapped children of Ohio. I can state with authority that whenever a deserving case has been called to the attention of our local Rotary Club, the response has been prompt and considerate of every possibility for helping the unfortunate boy or girl who has been deprived of certain opportunities and pleasures which are normal lot of physical able children.

Many years ago Rotary recognized this field as one of genuine merit. We have tried to promote this work as a service to our community in line with Rotary's belief that the future will take care of itself if we take care of the men and women of tomorrow. In the eyes of Rotary the crippled children are deserving of every consideration as men and women of tomorrow. It is the responsibility of those of us who are able today to provide medical care and vocational training for these crippled children so that tomorrow none of them will be public charges unable either to care for themselves or provide for their own support.

There is no particular reason why Rotary should assume this responsibility alone or rather there is no good reason why the support of this unquestionable worth-while undertaking should be limited to the membership of any single organization. Every church member in Ohio should share in this work, every taxpayer in the state should have an interest in this campaign, every educational leader, every teacher, every doctor and lawyer, business man and average citizen. Yes, every man and woman in Ohio should be proud to have a part in this work.

Improving the lot of the unfortunate child will make Ohio a more pleasant and much finer state in which to live and in which to do business. We are all of us stockholders in this state of ours. We are all members of this commonwealth with an interest in the welfare of the state and its parts including both the physical parts such as lands and buildings and also the human parts which include both the able bodied and the disabled bodies. The able bodies can take care of themselves but the disabled must be helped and the more help we give to the disabled when they are young, the less help we shall have to give them when they are old and helpless.

Therefore, as a matter of pure unselfish interest of dollars and cents it can be argued logically that everyone who has a taxable interest in the state of Ohio should be in favor of contributing toward the promotion of this campaign to provide funds for the better care and training necessary for these crippled youngsters who are unable to obtain these necessary things for themselves. There is not much that needs to be said on this subject. The cause needs no description. The fact that there are handicapped children who need help is well known to all of us. The extent of the need has been recognized by our state government for many years and by the federal government and the Social Security Act of 1935 which provides for grants of funds to states to help extend and improve their services to the crippled children. In almost all large cities and in many smaller ones and hamlets as well, there are special schools or classes for crippled children. There are clinics for the examination and treatment of such cases and there are special therapeutic swimming pools such as the public swimming pool at Dayton where victims of infantile paralysis are given treatments and baths under trained supervision. Various facilities are provided in many communities. Federal and state and local agencies are cooperating in the drive to im-

PUBLIC HEALTH LEAGUE REELECTS J. O. EAGLESON PRESIDENT FOR 1940

COUNTY GROUP HEARS REPORT OF 1939 WORK

Mrs. Kermit Dountz And Mrs. Paul Cromley Put On Executive Unit

The entire slate of last year's officers was reelected at the meeting of the Pickaway County Public Health League with the sole exception of the naming of two new members to serve on the executive committee, as the group convened at the Court House Friday night.

The reelected officers to serve for the coming year are J. O. Eagleson, president; George D. McDowell, vice president; Mrs. Harriet Henness, secretary; William T. Elm, treasurer, and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, executive secretary.

Mrs. Kermit Dountz and Mrs. Paul Cromley are the two new members of the executive committee. The other committee members are Ralph Head, C. A. Higley, Miss Clara Southward and Mrs. Harry Dunlap.

The sale of Christmas seals for the coming year will be in the hands of an unannounced committee to be headed by Mrs. George Crites. Carl Bennett was named as representative director. A film entitled "On the Firing Line," which presented the story of the fight against tuberculosis, was shown by Ben Kneper, representative of the Ohio Public Health Association.

Miss Dunlap, who served as executive secretary during the 1939 campaign, submitted the following financial report:

Three thousand letters mailed, $1,324.87 received to date.

Miss Dunlap reported that the Public Health League's accounts were audited by Durward Dowden and found to be correct.

Twenty percent of the money received was paid to the Ohio Public Health Association, the balance to remain in Pickaway County for use in the fight to prevent tuberculosis.

FORD GOOD WILL CARS SHOWN IN CIRCLEVILLE

Two specially painted stock model Fords operated by Ford Good Will drivers pulled up in front of the Pickaway Sales and Service showrooms on West Main Street, Friday, as they arrived with a convoy of Mercury cars escorted by the police and sheriff's cars.

Mayor William B. Cady and Sheriff Charles Radcliff signed the log that the good will cars are carrying on their trip East. Pictures were taken by the driver during the log signing.

Sheriff Radcliff drove one of the cars in a test over a prescribed course which included various kinds of driving conditions. Maintaining an average speed of 50 miles per hour, he reported gasoline consumption of one gallon every 21 miles.

The convoy and good will cars left the city late Friday.

RECKLESS, POSTS BOND

William Holland, 24, Charleston, West Virginia, was arrested by Patrolman Miller Fissell at 7:15 p. m. Friday and charged with reckless operation of a motor vehicle on North Court Street. He posted a $10 bond pending his hearing at 7 p. m. Monday on the charge of driving 43 miles per hour.

of Prime Minister Chamberlain, also an outgrowth of the Moscow peace treaty which ended the Russo-Finnish conflict.

The cabinet reshuffling was rumored to be set for Easter week and its most likely targets were believed to be Leslie Burgin, British minister of supply, and Sir Kingsley Wood, air secretary.

On the peace front diplomats in world capitals were attracted by a dramatic round of conferences launched in Rome by American Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles. On his second visit to the Italian capital since he began his fact-finding mission for President Roosevelt, Welles saw King Victor Emmanuel and Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano. By Monday he is expected to have conferred with Pope Pius XII and Premier Mussolini.

The Western Front was comparatively quiet, but naval warfare flared again in the North Sea for the first time in days.

A German military communique claimed the sinking of a British patrol boat and the damaging of another by Nazi bombers on a reconnoitering flight.

A sudden renewal of border fighting was reported on the Siberian-Manchukuoan frontier. No casualties were estimated.

BRITISH VESSEL SENDS SOS FROM SOUTH PACIFIC

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16—An SOS signal flashed by the British steamer Kahika, and appealing for immediate assistance, was intercepted in San Francisco today by Globe wireless.

The 1,172-ton vessel reported herself on the rocks and sinking fast in latitude 38.5 south, longitude 143 east. The position given placed the stricken ship in the straits between the southern tip of Australia and the island of Tasmania, one of the most treacherous stretches of navigable waters in the South Pacific.

The distress message picked up in San Francisco was relayed by the Matson liner Monterey which indicated the nearest rescue ship was 90 miles distant from the scene of the wreck.

Home port of the Kahika is Wellington, New Zealand. She is owned by the Union Steamship Co., of New Zealand, Ltd.

Six Democrats to Run For Post As Governor

COLUMBUS, March 16—Forty-eight Democrats and 25 Republicans will contest for their party's nomination to 11 state offices in the May 14 primary, petitions on file with Secretary of State Earl Griffith revealed today.

In the race for governor, six Democrats, including two former governors, and two Republicans, including Gov. John W. Bricker, filed. Governor Bricker, who twice has been unopposed for the G.O.P. nomination, will be opposed in the primary by Addison Q. Thacher, a former mayor of Toledo. Political observers expected Thacher to assail the relief financing program of Bricker.

F. D. R.'S WELLES BACK IN ROME FOR CONFERENCE

ROME, March 16—Returning to Rome for his second visit in less than a month, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles today began a swift series of conferences which may have a vital bearing on whether Europe's future shall be continued war or peace.

Welles, who is climaxing his fact-finding mission for President Roosevelt talked with King Victor Emmanuel at the Quirinal Palace for nearly eighty minutes.

Then the American diplomat hurried to the offices of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano with whom he conferred for seventy minutes. It was Welles' second lengthy meeting with Ciano, the first having occurred shortly after his first arrival in Italy.

Welles is expected to be received by Pope Pius on Monday, as well as Premier Mussolini again before his winds up his tour of Europe's capitals in the interests of peace.

SHERIFF'S RACE ATTRACTS EIGHT ON DEM TICKET

Both Judges Unopposed As Deadline Passes For Petition Filing

COMMITTEEMEN LISTED

No Surprise Candidates Put Names In Various Races At Last Minute

With the deadline for filing petitions past, neither party lines up for the May primary with a full slate of candidates and no unexpected or previously unannounced office seekers entered the lists.

Democratic candidates far outnumber the Republican entries, particularly in the race for the office of sheriff in which eight Democrats have filed petitions and only one Republican. Judges Meeker Terwilliger and Lemuel Weldon run unopposed no opposition being offered either from within or without their own parties.

The candidates for the primaries, barring an independent entry, are as follows:

Common Pleas Judge: Meeker Terwilliger, Democrat.

Probate Judge: Lemuel Weldon, Republican.

County Commissioners: Democrats, John B. Keller, George Eitel, Wayne Hoover, A. H. Crownover, Clarence W. Helvering; Republicans, Edward Kreisel, William Green, Lyman Penn.

Representative to the General Assembly: Harry B. Welch, Democrat; William D. Radcliff, Republican.

Prosecutor: George E. Gerhardt, Democrat; Sterling Lamb, Republican.

Recorder: Democrats, Florence T. Campbell and Winifred Wallace. Clerk of Courts: Democrats, A. L. Wilder, John R. Heiskell, Byron Eby, George C. Barnes; Republican, Charles W. Kirkpatrick.

Sheriff: Democrats, Lowell M. Brown, Harry W. Riffe, Edward F. Mauger, Samuel T. Schleich, John G. Ward, Jr., Charles H. Radcliff, Worley Storts, E. B. Wilson; Republican, Walter H. Nelson.

CHILICOTHE TOLD HOW TO CUT INSURANCE RATE

CHILICOTHE, March 16—Answering the inquiry made by Mayor Harold H. Brown of Chillicothe on how to reduce fire insurance rates in the city, T. B. Sellers of the Ohio Inspection Bureau outlined several requisites that would have to be followed before such reductions can be made in the city's business district.

Major improvements that would have to be made before the rate reductions were instituted included: installation of modern type steam hydrants as have been previously recommended; provide a modern 65 foot junior aerial truck; provide a 750 gallon triple pumper truck and maintain a fire department personnel of 19 men.

Seven Join Race For Claypool's Job in Congress

Robert Immell Offers Opposition To Incumbent; Five Republicans File Their Petitions For Nomination

That the 11th Ohio Congressional District, which includes Pickaway County, is in for one of its hottest primary fights in recent years was evidenced Saturday when the Ross County Board of Elections revealed that two Democrats, one of them an incumbent, and five Republicans have filed their petitions for the seat now held by Harold K. Claypool of Chillicothe, one of the two Democratic candidates.

Friday at 6:30 p. m. was the deadline for filing, congressional aspirants taking their petitions to Chillicothe, seat of the most densely populated county in the district.

The last minute filing of Robert L. Immell of Yellowbud for the Democratic nomination promises opposition for Claypool who had already filed. Mr. Immell said during the last week that he had not yet made up his mind concerning his candidacy, but when the deadline came for petitions to be filed he was on hand.

Ray Davis Enters

Republicans in the congressional race include Ray W. Davis, Circleville, two-term prosecutor of Pickaway County; Henry H. Hughes and Lawrence P. Mooney of Hocking County; Tom P. White of Fairfield County, and C. L. Chute of New Lexington.

As was announced here two weeks ago when Davis disclosed his candidacy, Ross County is not represented on the Republican slate, the committee and leading party members there being reported on the side of Davis.

The state senatorial contest for the district comprising Pickaway and Franklin Counties finds one local candidate in the fold in the person of Earl C. Reed of Walnut Township, a teacher in Columbus West High School. He is a Democrat. Others running for senatorial posts are George M. Morris, Henry P. Fagan, Joseph J. Van Heyde, Ethan Allen and Thomas F. O'Shaughnessy, all of Columbus, Democrats, and Grant P. Ward and Robert H. Hoffman, Columbus, Republican incumbents.

YOUNG DEMS IN FRIDAY CONFAB AT COURTHOUSE

Clarification of the 40 year age limit of membership in the organization was explained by Dr. Edward L. Montgomery, president of the Pickaway County Young Democrats Club, at the meeting in the Court House Friday night.

According to Dr. Montgomery, the constitution of the club does not bar anyone from membership in the club regardless of age. The limitation however, is placed on delegates to the state conventions. All delegates to state conventions, he added, must be under the age of 40 years. Officers and members of any of the club's units may be over that age.

Ray Cook, Pleasant Street, addressed the group of the third term issue and urged the members of the club to support a draft Roosevelt program.

County Democratic Chairman John F. Mader urged the club to support Earl Reed, Ashville, in his candidacy for the Ohio Senate from the 10th District which is comprised of Franklin and Pickaway Counties.

ELDON HILL'S ROADSTER STOLEN, POLICE INFORMED

Eldon Hill, 336 East Main Street, reported to the police and sheriff's offices Saturday that his 1934 Chevrolet roadster had been stolen from in front of his home sometime Friday night. The car which has a green body and black fenders bore the new 1940 license tags Y629.

U. S. Misses, Gains Citizens

THE stork cheated Uncle Sam out of gaining a new citizen and at the same time added another name to the list of native-born Americans when Mrs. Nick Futopolus of Greece was delivered of a child in Wichita, Kan. Just six hours before Mrs. Futopolus was to take her oath as a naturalized citizen she was rushed to the hospital and her child was born. Now she must wait six more months until the Wichita naturalization board meets again. But the child was born a citizen for its father has already been naturalized.

Georgia Governor Nabbed At Height of Bitter Feud

MACON, Ga., March 16—The spectacular feud between Gov. E. D. Rieger of Georgia and W. L. Miller, ousted chairman of the state highway board, blazed anew today following the governor's arrest by a federal marshal on a contempt of court citation.

Gov. Rieger was arrested last night as he left the stage of the Macon Auditorium, where he was a speaker before the Georgia Education Association.

Under protest, but hearkening to the warning of Marshal E. B. Boyle that "force" would be used if necessary, the chief executive was taken to the federal building, where he was released on his own recognizance by Judge Bascom S. Deaver of the middle Georgia district court, who had ordered his arrest. The judge freed the governor when the latter promised to return to court next Friday.

The governor was seized as the climax to a bitter controversy between him and Miller which began when Miller was fired by the governor last December 2. Miller protested the governor had no right to dismiss him, and he attempted to stage a "sit down" in his office, refusing to give way to a successor.

Miller's effort to keep his position was met by swift action from the governor, who had Miller forcibly ejected from his office. Miller claims he was twice thrown out, while on at least six occasions national guardsmen kept him out of the state building in Atlanta.

MURDERER OF EX-HUBBY'S WIFE NOW IN HOSPITAL

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 16—Mrs. Maisie Walker Burleson, confessed slayer of her divorced husband's second wife, was under observation today in the state hospital for the insane.

Mrs. Burleson was committed to the hospital for 30 days by Circuit Judge G. Duncan Bellinger, who acted on the request of her counsel. Previously, City Physician P. E. Payne had stated in an affidavit that he believed Mrs. Burleson of unsound mind.

Thursday night a coroner's jury, after hearing witnesses relate how Mrs. Burleson shot and killed the wife of her former husband, Col. Richard C. Burleson, army artillery adviser at nearby Camp Jackson, in a Columbia Hotel cafeteria last Saturday, ordered her held for trial. By her commitment to the hospital, however, she will escape trial at the April 15 term of court.

Cabinet Changes Rumored As Result Of Finnish, Soviet Peace Pact

By International News Service

Rumania reached the center of the European war of nerves and aggressive diplomacy today with Germany and Russia clamping intensified pressure on the Balkan monarchy to wean her completely away from the Anglo-French entente.

Bucharest dispatches revealed that King Carol has set aside his bitter fight to keep the pro-Nazi, anti-Semitic Iron Guard organization off Rumanian soil.

The king was reported to have reconciled himself to the Iron Guards even to the extent of withdrawing his decree of nearly a year ago outlawing members of the group as terrorists.

London reports went still further. They declared King Carol already has obtained a German guarantee of her frontiers against Soviet Russia, Hungary and Bulgaria. The Nazi Reich also was said to have secured the right to organize Rumania's youthful descendants of German minority residents.

The Russo-German shift toward the Balkans, and especially Rumania, dated from the Soviet-Finnish peace treaty which removed from the European scene a great barrier to the shipment of war supplies and goods from the Soviet Union to Germany.

OHIO SALES TAX REPORTS GO UP IN COUNTY AREA

Pickaway County retailers during the week ending March 2 did a large business if the report of the state treasurer's office on sale of prepaid sales tax can be used as a criterion.

The week grossed $1,728.20 compared with $993.87 during the same week a year ago. The week's total boosted receipts for the year to $11,855.98, ahead of 1939's $10,803.29.

COLUMBUS, March 16—Evidence of early buying of apparel preceding the Easter Holiday is reflected in the latest release of Sales Tax figures given out by Don H. Ebricht, treasurer of state. The report also showed that total sales of tax stamps for the year to March 2, 1940 had increased 12.2 percent over the same period in 1939.

Grand total of all collections under the Sales Tax law this year has been $7,318,331.47 or 12.3 percent greater than the $6,511,225.83 total to the same date one year ago.

For one week ending March 2 agents of the treasurer sold stamps in the amount of $860,297.08 which, when compared with the $734,869.99 collected during the same week last year, shows that the difference of $125,427.09 is a gain of 15.7 percent for 1940.

CINCINNATI PATROLMAN WOUNDED BY SUSPECT

CINCINNATI, March 16—Shot below the heart, asserted by a burglar suspect he attempted to seize, Patrolman Julius Mayer, 25, was in serious condition in General Hospital today. Police arrested Walter Whitaker, 28, a paroled convict and said they would file shooting with intent to kill charges against him.

School Court Tourney Near Final Session

Massillon, Canton, New Philadelphia, Dayton Fairview Remain; Amanda Eliminated By Glenford In Class B Competition

By Russell Fuller

COLUMBUS, March 16—Massillon, Canton McKinley, Dayton Fairview and New Philadelphia in Class A and New Carlisle, Smithfield, Glenford and Canfield in Class B today entered the semi-final rounds of the state high school scholastic basketball tournament.

But to many folk who witnessed yesterday's matches in the Fairgrounds Coliseum, the semi-finals were a mere aftermath to the greatest individual exhibition seen in a state tournament for years.

A young forward from Findlay by the name of Warren "bullet" Bell, made the basketball fairy sing as time and again he dribbled the length of the floor through a bewildered Canton McKinley five to slip one through the hoop.

Although Canton came from behind in the waning second to snare a 32 to 30 victory, Bell's exhibition left spectators and sports writers alike limp from sheer exhaustion at watching the dazzling display turned in by the Findlay forward. But more about that later. Today's semi-final pairings:

Class A—Massillon vs. Canton McKinley at 3 p. m. New Philadelphia vs. Dayton Fairview at 4 p. m. Class B—New Carlisle vs. Smithfield at 1 p. m. Glenford vs. Canfield at 2 p. m.

All Have Supporters

As the tournament entered its last day, the spectators felt that either Canton McKinley or New Philadelphia would cop the A title. The B fracas was a tossup, but the edge in the opinion of observers went to New Carlisle or Glenford. But Canfield and Smithfield had their supporters, so many in fact that the whole thing had to be rated a mad scramble.

Canton McKinley, undefeated during the season, was a likely choice to defeat Paul Brown's Massillon five. But in so doing, the Bulldogs will probably be drained of so much energy that their showing in the finals might lack the finesse to cop the title. New Philadelphia was a short favorite over Dayton Fairview.

McKinley met unexpected opposition in Findlay, or rather in Bell. Bell was the whole show. In the third quarter, this antics so worried the McKinley boys that they seemed in desperation.

When he dribbled, he seemed to pay no attention to his opponents, moving carefully down the floor, first drifting to the side, then back and across and finally breaking fast in one direction while the Bulldogs were looking for him somewhere else. He scored 18 points to bring his two game total to 38.

The score was knotted at five at the end of the first period. But Findlay held a 13 to 12 margin at the half. Bell made nine points in the third quarter to give Findlay a 25 to 20 lead at that time. But as the game drew to a close, Ryman, McKinley forward and Inman, McKinley negro forward, connected.

With the score 30 to 29 in Findlay's favor, Ryman hooped one from way out to put McKinley ahead 31 to 30. This won the game Inman's free throw only made the margin of victory two points instead of one. McKinley won the match mainly through the ability of Ryman and Guard Carnes to connect with unerring accuracy from far out on the court.

YOUTHFUL STAR PACES COLORADO TO COURT TITLE

NEW YORK, March 16—With their sophomore star flashing the most valuable player award, the Golden Buffaloes of Colorado University today laid claim to the nation's basketball crown after capturing the national invitation tournament by topping Duquesne 51-40.

Fifteen thousand fans jammed Madison Square Garden to see the Buffaloes, winner of 16 out of 18 games this season, outsmart and outscore a brilliant Duquesne five that fought until the end against superior odds. After trailing 22-18 at half time, the Buffaloes became the first sophomore ever to win the tourney's most valuable player trophy.

In an exciting preliminary game, the Oklahoma Aggies clinched third place in the tourney by nosing out De Paul 23-22.

Gosnell Funeral Home Five To Meet Newark Gasco In Feature

CLOSE GAME IN BOOK

Club Officials Hoping For Large Attendance At Last Session

Circleville Athletic Club officials were hoping Saturday that a large crowd would be present for the final session of their second annual independent basketball tournament scheduled for Saturday evening. Friday night's games brought out some of the finest basketball to be played on the Club court this year, but the attendance figure was not up to expectations.

In the finals tonight will be the Gosnell Funeral Home of Columbus and the Newark Gasco quintet. A preliminary will start at 7:30 o'clock, the championship game to be at 8:30.

The Gosnell Funeral Home knocked off the Columbus Federal Glass 43 to 37 in a ding-dong affair that saw the score always close. The winners held an 18-16 lead at halftime, and really turned on in the second half although the Federals matched their play right up to the end of the game.

The more evenly balanced Funeral Home team carried off the victory, however.

Newark Gasco, paced by Axline, former Zanesville star, and Buddy Mercer, ace of the 1935 Newark championship team, held a seven points edge over the scrappy Chillicothe City Club team at halftime, but was forced to battle for every point in the final half before coming out ahead.

In a preliminary the Wyandott A. C. team of Columbus won from Stout's Pure Oils, 29-28 in an overtime contest.

WOODRUFF WINS BRASS RING AS WEEK'S ATHLETE

By International News Service

John Youle Woodruff, graduate of Pittsburgh University and post-graduate student at New York University, draws the little brass ring this week for breaking all existing records for the 800 meters and 880 yards over the Dartmouth University track.

Long John—he is six feet four—used that amazing nine-foot stride of his to eat up yardage with such seeming ease as to make his record smashing performance seem no special effort at all.

Running with his usual dead pan expression, the big fellow from South Connessville, Pa. breezed through the first quarter in 54 seconds and then went through the second in 53.7—a great tribute to his judgment of even pace.

On the way to the half mile record in 1:47.7, he also established new figures for the 800 meters in 1:47.

Heretofore, John has been no ball of fire on the boards for two reasons: first, because he has been known as a lazy runner and, second, because most indoor tracks with their sharp turns, have hampered him.

But with his mind set on a new world record and running on the large Dartmouth track, the big fellow showed what he could do if given the incentive.

John won the 800 meter Olympic championship for us in 1936. He won the I. C. 4-A titles for the quarter and half mile three straight years while at Pitt and he hasn't been beaten over the half mile route outdoors in the last four years.

A marvelous running machine is John and when he finishes his current courses in sociology he should make a great instructor and coach at some college.

About This And That In Many Sports

Orchids go to Coach Trevor Jones of Amanda for sending his splendid cagers into the quarter-finals of the state basketball tournament. . . . Too bad the Amanda lads had to lose to Glenford in Friday's games, but many in the coliseum believe that Glenford has a better chance to cop the title than would Amanda have had if the team had won its game. . . . Nolan Swackhammer, Glenford coach, is a Laurelville product, an ex-Ohio U. star and a grand guy. . . . Amanda lost three ball games during the year and Glenford was the top team in each of them. . . . The first was by four points, the second by two points and the third—the tourney tilt—by three points, 43-40. . . . With six minutes to play Amanda held a six point lead, but just couldn't get past the Shrider cousins, Dick and Herb, the former an All-Ohio selection and a worthy one. . . . He's bound for Ohio U., if his coach has anything to do with it.

Amanda's success is certainly a story of team play, the Fairfield boys playing without an individual star, all the boys contributing to the club's success. . . . Only two boys will be lost next year, Ted Clevenger and Herb Lutz, forward and guard. . . . Hiatt, Christy and Young will be back and McDonald and Pontius are on hand to replace the pair that are moving on. . . .

Circleville High Tigers went to the state tournament Saturday as guests of the Kiwanis Club, 10 boys and Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong being taken along. . . . The group, in charge of Dan McClain, will see afternoon and evening sessions, getting a lunch between times at the expense of the Kiwanians. . . . Ashville's cagers were feted Friday evening by the Parent-Teacher Association, a large crowd being present and a big time being had by all. . . .

Cincinnati Woodward could have put an entire Negro team on the court Friday evening, five colored boys being carried on the squad, and all of them plenty good, too. . . . The team possessed more showmanship than has any other team in the tourney to date, but couldn't muster enough points to oust the well-rounded Dayton Fairview club. . . . The Canton McKinley-Massillon game set for Saturday afternoon should be a ding-dong affair. . . . Natural rivals, the schools are, and McKinley has won two ball games so far this year from the Tigers, the last in an overtime joust. . . . If Canton wins you can bet a nickel the team will not be in the best of shape for the finals tonight. . . .

Many tourney followers believe that McKinley will win this afternoon in one bracket and Dayton Fairview in the other over New Philadelphia. . . . The Philly Quakers are the most aggressive boys in the tournament, but they lack the height and finesse of the Daytonites. . . . The Quakers, with a large crowd of fans present and their finely-bedecked band almost took possession of the coliseum Friday eve. . . . Incidentally that band of about 75 pieces was sent to the tournament Thursday by the Band Mothers' Association, an organization of mothers of the youngsters in the outfit, with expenses paid, hotel bills taken care of and transportation provided, without a penny's expense to the boys and girls who comprise it. . . . New Philly did not lose a football game last fall and neither has it lost a basketball game in 23 starts so far this year. . . . Best boys on the Philly team are Glenn Barker, forward, and Jack Castiglione, guard, the latter a ball handling wizard. . . . Bronco Reese, the other forward, is 6 feet 2, weighs 216 and plays fullback on the football team. . . . His sub is Leo Benjamin, 6 feet 1, 212 and an end offensively and fullback defensively on the grid. . . . The latter, rated by college scouts as the best prospect on the Philly grid team, is ticketed for Ohio State, so says Sid Gilman. . . .

MAKI SETS NEW MARK IN MILE AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 16—Taisto Maki, world's foremost distance runner, was credited with a new world's record today.

The flashing Finn, making his second appearance in a transcontinental tour, won a special three-mile match race at the University of Chicago fieldhouse last night in 14 minutes, 1.9 seconds, finishing three-quarters of a lap in front of Tommy Deckard, former Indiana University star.

Maki's time was six seconds slower than the mark of 13:55.9 established recently by Gregory Rice of Notre Dame, but it was claimed to be a new world's record for three miles of dirt footing. Rice's mark is the world's indoor record for the distance on a board track.

Outdoors, Maki has run three miles in 13:42.4, and this mark now is up for acceptance as the world's record.

Long, lean girls, according to a physician's research, are likelier to succeed in tennis than in swimming.

CHURCHES OF DISTRICT ARRANGING SPECIAL PROGRAMS FOR HOLY WEEK

Union Rites To Be Held Friday At 2

Sermon Subjects Announced By Some Ministers; Others Have Other Services

With Palm Sunday one day off and Easter one week away, churches throughout the county and several in Circleville will hold Holy week services every night of the coming week.

The Union Service of the Calvary Evangelical, Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopal and United Brethren Churches will be held at the United Brethren Church this year on Good Friday from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Services will be held every evening at the Trinity Lutheran, United Brethren and First Methodist Churches. Each has planned special services and music for the week.

The Rev. A. N. Grueser of the United Brethren Church will deliver the following sermons through the week: Sunday, "The Triumphant Entry"; Monday, "The Temple Cleansed"; Tuesday, "Christ's Authority Challenged"; Wednesday, "Silence and Prayer"; Thursday, "Holy Communion"; Friday, United Service.

Luther League pantomimes and special choir music will add to the beauty of the services at the Trinity Lutheran Church. The program of the church for the week's sermons is as follows: Tuesday, "Shall I with Pilate Condemn Him To Death?"; Wednesday, "Shall I With the Jews Crucify My King?"; Thursday, "Coming to the Lord's Table Worthily"; Good Friday afternoon, "Behold; The Bleeding and Dying King"; Good Friday Communion service at 7:30 p. m.

The Junior Choir will start the week's services at the First Methodist Church Tuesday evening. Their selections are "There Is A Green Hill" and "Fairer Lord Jesus". On Wednesday evening the Epworth League will lead the singing and Rev. C. F. Bowman will preach on "The Power of Meekness".

Thursday evenings service will be dedicated to administering the Sacrament of Holy Communion. "Seven Words From The Cross" will be the theme of the Friday service.

Services in the three churches will start at 7:30 p. m.

Calvary—Triumph Through Sacrifice ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 26:57-27:56

The morning after Jesus was betrayed by Judas, the chief priests and elders of the people took counsel against Him to put Him to death, and they bound Him and delivered Him to Pontius Pilate, the governor.

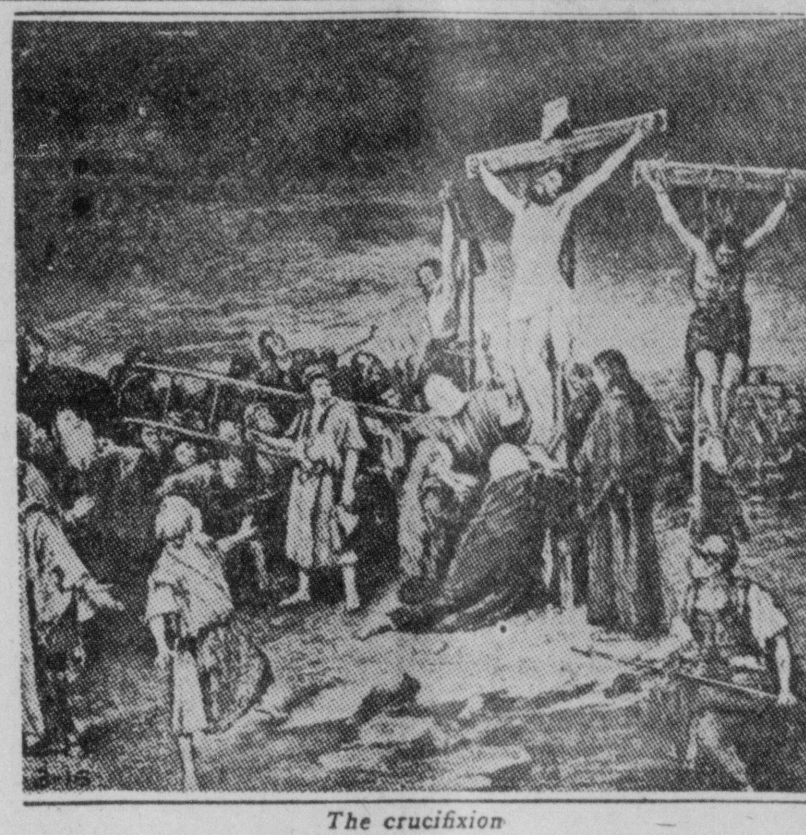

In the meantime, Judas, when he saw Christ condemned, repented, brought the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, confessing, "I have sinned," and then went out and hanged himself.

Pilate questioned the Lord, but could find no fault with Him, and told the populace, but they cried, "Crucify Him, crucify Him!" Pilate then washed his hands before them to show that he was innocent of His death.

The soldiers then took Jesus, put a scarlet robe on Him, a crown of thorns on His head and a reed in His hand, and mocked Him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" (GOLDEN TEXT—Isa. 53:3)

A housing expert calculates that if all the United States employable could find jobs, the lower income third of the people would no longer be ill-fed or ill-clothed, but would still be ill-housed. According to statistics, 80 percent of farmhouses are sub-standard, and a third of city dwelling units are a hazard to health and decency.

"ALL that can be said against us," says a Finnish Foreign Minister Tanner sadly, "is that as a nation we are too small."

Ancient Israel was small in the great days when it made history.

Greece was no bigger than Finland when Xenophon's 10,000 men licked a million Persians and Athenian civilization lighted up the world.

England was a little nation in the great days of Elizabeth, Shakespeare, Bacon and Drake.

Goliath was bigger than David, but what of it?

The Finns are not licked. We'll be hearing from them again.

FOREIGN TRADE

A PROMINENT American economist, asked whether the American standard of living could be maintained or increased by limiting foreign trade, replies:

"Every major country has experienced, since the World War, a lower standard of living every time its foreign trade suffered restrictions."

This is a truth that Americans are slow to learn, but gradually the idea seems to be taking hold. There has never been much difference of opinion about it among economists. The change comes from people in general gradually realizing that nations, like states, cities and individuals, can't prosper without exchanging their goods and services, that international trade can't run in one direction only—that exporting and importing are two sides of the same process.

It doesn't mean "free trade", of course. No nation believes or practises that extreme doctrine any more. It merely means buying abroad enough of the things we want so that the foreigners can buy from us what we have to sell.

There seems to be, in the international exchange of goods and services, something like the healthful circulation of blood in the human body.

WRECKS AT CROSSINGS

A SUBURBAN community, checking on traffic accidents within its town limits, made a surprising discovery. A fine boulevard system runs through the area, and all intersections are well marked and protected with signal lights. Accidents there ought to be few.

Yet police records showed that many accidents took place at traffic lights because drivers often did one of two crazy things. Some watched lights only instead of keeping an eye on other drivers, and so got hit by the careless fellow. Some tried to beat the light, and they did the hitting.

This is just plain foolishness. A good driver and properly placed and working lights make a combination to eliminate accidents at intersections. It is inexcusable to cause smash-ups there.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Lingered over the breakfast coffee, reading with increased horror of the terms imposed on little Finland by mighty Russia. Was there ever a better argument in behalf of preparedness? Maybe the cases of Ethiopia, Albania, Austria, China, Czechoslovakia, Poland, et al were as good. Nice people, we of this modern civilization.

Noted an increase in garden seed sales about the ville, and heard a wren in the back yard. Reminded of necessity for building a wren house that will be cat proof. Saw the new general community fire truck at the station and Chief Wise explained all the gadgets, of which there are many. A fine piece of apparatus, and one that should save its cost several times over in the course of a year. The city is getting one just like it and then we will have fire protection better than ever.

Received an invitation to speak before the county Ministerial Association which would be as difficult an assignment as a newspaperman could face. Have yet to see the working scrivener who can make a speech. We all think better sitting down, if at all. Imagine getting up before more than a score of trained orators with no more orating equipment than I have at command? Hope I am able to duck that one, not because I do not like to talk to ministers, but because I prefer to talk to them informally and one at a time. I think I have never talked to one yet without learning something.

And speaking of pastors reminds me that the Rev. Robert Kelsey recently went to the other side of Columbus on a speaking engagement and locked his keys inside his car. He had to telephone home and have his extra key brought to him. Then his father-in-law heard about it and sent to the popular young minister express, collect, a great box of old keys of all sorts, the express bill being something more than $1.50. A fine father-in-law, really.

LET-DOWN OF FINLAND CLEAR

WASHINGTON—Now that artillery fire has departed from the battlefields of Finland, the Allies are getting an almost panic-stricken picture of what that defeat means to them.

For when the history of this world war is written, probably the let-down of Finland can be placed beside the British sabotage of the Spanish Republic as the war's two major catastrophes.

The surrender of Finland means not so much a triumph for Soviet Russia as for Germany. It means that the remainder of Finland now will be welded together for self-protection in an economic alliance with Sweden and Norway. And most important of all it means that all Scandinavia will come under the direct domination, if not the control, of Germany.

In fact, Nazi Germany is working overtime right now, and has been for the past two weeks, to create a sort of United States of North Europe—Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark, all cooperating in the closest manner economically, and perhaps politically, with the Reich. That is why Dr. Schacht, Germany's economic genius, arrived in Stockholm exactly one day after Finnish peace was signed.

This means that another vital area of Europe becomes alienated from the British, just as the downfall of the Spanish Republic meant that British influence vanished from one vital area of the Mediterranean.

CHAPTER BY CHAPTER

To get the complete picture of British muddling, one must go back to the start of the Finnish war last November. Here is the history, chapter by chapter:

CHAPTER 1. Finland was dickering with Russia for a settlement without war. While Finnish envoys were in Moscow, the British press urged an unyielding front against Russia, British diplomats patted Finland on the back, gave her every encouragement to resist Stalin's demand for territory and naval bases.

CHAPTER 2.—The war started. Finland appealed to Britain for planes. Lord Halifax explained that Great Britain could not afford to risk offending a friendly country—Russia.

CHAPTER 3.—As Finland stood her ground, and as the war dragged past Christmas, the British and French began sending planes surreptitiously into Finland. But there was no open support.

CHAPTER 4.—On February 7 Premier Daladier and Prime Minister Chamberlain met in Paris. By that time confidential military reports from Finland indicated clearly that the Finns could not last much longer. More than equipment, they needed replacements. Their men were worn out.

ALLIED HELP DELAYED

Daladier proposed that Britain and France undertake an expeditionary force through Sweden to Finland immediately. He said that French troops were ready, but no expeditionary force could move without the British fleet.

Neville Chamberlain said he would take the matter under advisement.

CHAPTER 5.—On February 8 the Swedes, long worried over the encroachment of Russia, informed the French and British that they would cooperate with an Allied expeditionary force. The Swedes went even further, said that since it would take some days for the British and French

Why Do You Fear the Dentist?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Why do we fear the dentist? This has been the cause of an intensive investigation. Dentists are very much interested in it and no general formula can be arrived at. The following questions were asked a group:

Do you fear actual pain? Do you fear anticipated pain? Do you fear unexpected pain? Do you fear the sound or vibration of dental instruments?

In general, people reply in the negative to all these questions, but at the same time cannot pin themselves down to what they exactly do fear about dentists. The best we can say is that in spite of all the improvements in dental technique, people do fear the dentist and neglect visiting him, to their own detriment. If they could overcome this and go earlier, they would probably suffer less.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Mental Attitude and Blood Pressure

Has the mental attitude any relation to high blood pressure?

Yes; in a study of the role of personality in high blood pressure states, it has been found by Rennie, of Baltimore, that an unstable personality make-up, existing over a lifetime, has much to do with high blood pressure, especially in variations in pressure. So much is this true that, in many cases, he believes willingness to deal with the personality features may offer the only effective tool in the way of treatment.

Why Mother's Milk Is Best for Baby

Why should mother's milk be any better for a newborn baby than a well-imitated preparation of other animals' milk?

Brenemann stated that "The milk of every mammal is specific for its young. To this, man is no exception. There is, furthermore, evidence that the milk of one mammal is not only imperfectly adapted to the young of other mammals but that there is even something harmful in nonspecific milk. . . . While it may eventually prove to be largely, or wholly, a matter of chemistry, there is reason to believe there is also an intangible biologic factor. . . . That an apparently perfect nutritional result can be obtained without breast milk is a matter of daily observation. That the apparent result may not be real is possible, even probable."

Of course, present-day experience shows that many artificial mixtures are perfectly competent nutritionally, but it is still the firm belief of pediatricians that a preliminary period, if only for a month or six weeks, of breast feeding is highly desirable to start the newborn child on its way in the world.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

W. T.: "What causes a small swelling on the lower gum? Look like small blisters. No pain. No pus."

Answer—Probably canker sores or from infected teeth. Treatment: Clean the teeth, use alkali, sodium bicarbonate, by mouth.

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

"Bill Strickland, an suspected in the murder of my friend, Alfred Markham, rich young jeweler, at a party in the Rio Vista clubhouse. Searching the garden for a knife I had dropped, hoping to find it before the police did, I am attacked in the dark, kidnapped, taken by boat to a deserted riverfront warehouse."

CHAPTER EIGHT

AFTER A DOZEN or more steps in the darkness a faint light appeared to the left. We turned toward it and came to the bottom of a stairway at the top of which was a window with the moonlight streaming through. My captor poked me from behind to indicate that I was to climb.

There were cobwebs on the walls and dust on the steps. We sounded like a cat and a horse—I in my bare feet and the boatman in his heavy shoes.

At the top of the stairs we found a second flight going up to another floor. The building here was not as ruinous as it appeared in its lower regions, for on this second stairway there were no cobwebs and the dust had been swept clean.

We came into a great warehouse room, dimly lighted on one side by many windows and piled high with boxes and sacks that threw black, mysterious shadows. The indescribable odor of onions and potatoes and straw pervaded the place. Through the windows I saw the tops of trees growing on the river levee.

My captor, who had not yet spoken a word, pushed me to a pile of sacks, ripped the gag from my mouth, and gave me a shove that dropped me on top of them, face down, with my hands still tied behind me. He knotted a rope swiftly around my bare ankles. It was a hard rope, and hurt.

When his footsteps retreated I rolled over and strained my ears to listen. He was among the sacks and boxes at the far end of the huge room. There seemed to be no one else in the place. The next moment the sound of a door opening and the click of its latch as it closed, told me I was alone.

The stillness was complete, except for the throbbing in my head. I felt the warmth of blood trickling down over my forehead. It collected on my eyebrows.

I struggled with my bonds. My efforts were of no use. My hands were numb. I could not tell what I was doing with my fingers. The ropes around my ankles only cut deeper as I tried to loosen them.

I gave up, and lay still, trying to think. I was in a desperate plight. My absence from the clubhouse would probably convince the police that I was guilty of Alfred Markham's murder, and had fled.

Perhaps that was the purpose of this kidnapping, to increase the suspicion against me—if my captor had been afraid the police would suspect him.

What had this huge boatman been doing in the garden by the clubhouse? What did he know about the murder?

The questions sent such a throbbing through my head that I resolutely stared out the windows and tried to make my mind a blank. Then I closed my eyes and lay back on the sacks, knowing I must conserve my strength.

Dawn could not be far off, I told myself.

Hours passed. The windows were tinged with the pink of the sunrise, driving the shadows back. Still my captor did not return.

Once or twice there was the sound of a rat scurrying across the floor or rattling in one of the boxes. I was very thirsty.

I began to wonder if the boatman intended me to lie here until I was found by the rightful owners of the place when they came to work. My heart leaped when a door opened and heavy footsteps approached across the floor behind me. But it was the boatman again. I decided from a view of the long hairy arm that came around the corner of the sacks and set a bowl of soup on the floor near me. Now that it was daylight he was careful to keep out of sight.

Two buns and a newspaper were dropped beside the bowl. Then the footsteps withdrew and the door opened and closed. The soup looked inviting. I rolled over and worked my face toward it, which was difficult with my wrists and ankles tied. It was even more difficult to suck up the soup once I reached it, but I managed somehow and also got several bites out of the buns before they rolled so on the floor that there was no longer a clean place on them. I rolled back toward the sacks, where I could rest my aching head again.

The newspaper had fallen so that I could read the headlines. "YOUNG JEWELER STABBED TO DEATH"

I sat up, the ache forgotten. A beam of sunlight was slanting down on the type. By leaning forward a little I had no difficulty in reading it:

"Alfred Markham, prominent young jeweler of Seventh avenue, was stabbed to death shortly after 11 o'clock last night during a dinner dance at the exclusive Rio Vista club," the account began.

"William Strickland, portrait painter, also a member of the club, disappeared under mysterious circumstances shortly after admitting to the police that he had been quarreling with Markham in the rear garden of the club ten minutes before the body was found there by Jerry Montclair and John St. Clair, president of the club."

"Markham conducted a jewelry shop at 645 Seventh avenue. He was 32 years old, unmarried and considered one of the most eligible bachelors in the local social set."

"Police were searching for Strickland throughout the river district this morning. No clue had been located by the time this paper went to press."

"The disappearance of Strickland is doubly puzzling because of the fact that he had established an almost perfect alibi, Captain of Detectives Clyde McDonald said. Strickland had been seen to go up stairs while Markham was standing alone in the garden and apparently had not come down again until after the body was found lying beside the lily pond in the garden in the rear court. "Markham had been stabbed from the front with a blow of great force, according to Coroner James Silver, who advanced the theory that the assailant had been talking or quarreling with his victim and therefore was an acquaintance. The body had been dragged several yards, as was shown by marks on the walk where it was lying face upward."

"No weapon could be found, except a pocket knife said to belong to Strickland. It was lying in the grass by the rose arbor a few feet from the body."

"A broken and bloodied croquet mallet also lay near the body. There also was blood on the railing at the end of the rose arbor. A short stool which guests at the party testified had been in the corner of the rose arbor in the evening, was missing."

"These were the major clues uncovered by Coroner Silver and Captain McDonald in their short investigation last night, they reported. They left the garden under guard and directed the search for Strickland, expecting to go over the scene of the crime more thoroughly today."

"Strickland vanished a few minutes after going upstairs while the investigation which he had volunteered to assist was in progress. He is 31 years old, five feet 11 inches tall, with brown hair and blue eyes, of athletic build and was dressed in a tuxedo. He resides in his studio at 644 Laurel street. No relatives are known. He has been a member of the club about one year. Little is known of his previous history."

"Markham was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Markham of 789 Fairview plaza. He is survived by a brother, George Markham of Bellingham, who was notified of the death last night and is expected to arrive here some time today. There is a sister, Louise Markham, of Banta."

"The body is now in the Curtiss undertaking parlors. Time of the inquest will be announced today, unless Strickland is still missing, in which case the inquest may be delayed, Coroner Silver says."

The paper trembled in front of my eyes. I shut them, breathing heavily. Yes, it looked bad for me—very bad. The police had found my knife. They believed I had fled. (To Be Continued)

175 At Banquet For Ashville Athletic Teams

School Colors Of Orange, Black Predominate

School colors of orange and black, and green and white, predominated in the decorations for the annual Basketball Banquet sponsored by the Ashville-Harrison Parent-Teacher Association, 175 guests being present for the auspicious occasion. About 30 players, coaches and athletic officials were guests of honor.

With no particular plan of arrangement, the individual tables were attractively centered with potted plants furnished by M. M. Hott. The original place cards at the guests' table were made and furnished by E. F. Schlegel.

Following the excellent chicken dinner, players' letters were presented by Albert J. Kauber, boys' coach, to Barney Rose, Junior Gregg, co-captains, Billy Cloud, Jack Foreman, George Forquer, Eugene Wilson, Lawrence Nance, Gervaise Peters, Harold Rose and Warren Swisher, while the girls' coach, Miss Geraldine Conrad gave players' letters to Miss Anna Belle Ward, captain, the Misses Ruth Coin, Charlotte Courtright, Jeanne Dunnick, Mary Jane Higley, Beatrice Kibbee, Ethel Reid, Donna Smith, Jane Stevenson and Dorothy Wellington. Andrew Gray and Miss Charlotte Dunnick were granted managers' letters and Miss Florence Smith, cheerleader's letter. The letters of Barney Rose, Junior Gregg and Miss Anna Belle Ward each carried a 'C' to signify captaincies.

Appropriate responses to the presentation speeches were made by those awarded letters.

Following the ceremony of granting letters, various persons of the community were called on for informal talks.

Dancing, the planned diversion, was enjoyed from 8:30 until midnight, the music being furnished by a WPA Orchestra of Columbus.

The success of the party, which was one of the outstanding social affairs of the year for the community, was due to the generosity of the school patrons, and the work of the ways and mean committee, consisting of the Mrs. Grace Courtright, Mrs. Maggie Reid, Mrs. Edna Dunnick, and Mrs. Charles Nance, working under Mrs. Edward Hedges, chairman.

Y. T. C. Meets
Thirteen members were joined by five visitors for the regular meeting of the Youths' Temperance Council Friday at the home of Miss Virginia Turner, 564 East Main Street.

Richard Conrad, president, called the meeting to order, the group repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison. Miss Margaret Ward led the group in the singing of hymns, and the devotionals were in charge of Miss Ruth Gard who read Matthew 25:10 and an article from the Union Signal on "Preparedness".

During the business meeting the cast was chosen for a play which will be given in the early summer. Three new members, Perry Fox of Oakland, Joe Valentine of Amanda and Miss Marjorie Kuhn of Circleville were received at the meeting.

After games were played, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Cotillion Club Meets

Mix or Match 'em

YOU MAY mix your red and pinks or match them. We saw a red straw sailor with a large pink rose we liked the other day, the colors singing a duet. If today's picture were reproduced in color, the effect would be quite different: bag, jewelry, lipstick and nail lacquer would all be a hot pink, a dashing accent for the soft grey wool jacket dress and grey beret. Don't imagine, though, that all shades containing red go together... purplish lipstick and firemen's red polish definitely quarrel. Don't become bored, either, by color-matching. At times you'll want to match lipstick and polish to a scarf only, or perhaps to a boutonniere or bow in your hair. The point is, it's easy to achieve harmony in our costumes these days with cosmeticians and designers working hand in hand.

The next regular session of the group will be April 5.

U. B. Mixed Class Meets
The young married couples' class of the United Brethren Church enjoyed a business meeting Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick of North Pickaway Street. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Radcliffe were also members of the social committee for the evening.

Malcolm Russell was in charge of the business hour when the group decided to have its meeting the third Friday of each month. The president appointed entertainment and program committees for the monthly sessions.

Mrs. James Dancy led the devotional hour after which delicious refreshments were served to the 20 members present.

The next session, April 19, will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Dervort, 421 East Ohio Street.

Burning green tapers and two large birthday cakes decorated the large table where 25 were served.

During the short business meeting which followed, plans were made to attend the meeting of the Chillicothe lodge Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Seward Folsom and children, Katherine and Tom, of Lima are spending the week end with his mother, Mrs. H. P. Folsom, of East Main Street.

Mr. Allen Fleming of Columbus is spending the week end with his sister, Mrs. Lee Shaner, of East Union Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Vieman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Cole of Columbus arrived Saturday to visit over the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Tom R. Burke of North Pickaway Street.

Mrs. Ray D. Post of Washington, C. H. was a Friday guest of Mrs. C. E. Moeller and Miss Gretchen Moeller of East Union Street.

Mrs. Thaddeus Cromley of near Ashville was a Friday visitor in Circleville.

Miss Dorothy Watkins of Columbus and Donald Tucker of New Lexington were Thursday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Magill and family of Seyfert Avenue.

JR. CAST HOLDS DAILY PRACTICE FOR "JUNE MAD"
During the last week the junior class play cast has been rehearsing daily after school or in the evening for "June Mad".

This play concerns the troubles of Penny Wood's first love. Penny is a fifteen old "tomboy", absolutely uninterested in boys. Then Roger Van Vleck, a man of the world, comes to visit the Woods, and Penny experiences her first pangs of "puppy love".

Troubles arise when Julie, the girl friend of Penny's Uncle Mervyn, attracts the attentions of Roger. The audience will be amused by Penny's efforts to obtain a red party dress. Other complications arise but one must see the play to learn the outcome.

Samuel R. Johnson, dramatics director, announced Tuesday that new curtains have been ordered for the auditorium. They are expected to be here in time for this presentation.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the junior class. Tickets will go on reserve, at a local business establishment to be announced later, on Monday, March 25.

JUNIOR B TEAM CLINCHES TITLE
This week the intramural league crown went to the Junior B team for the second consecutive year. Though one more round is still to be played, the Sophomore A aggregation lost any mathematical chance of a tie by losing to the Sophomore B crew by a score of 21-20 while the Juniors were defeating a hapless Junior A outfit, 57-14.

In the first two games the Seniors overcame the eighth grade by a 30-22 count. The graders were led by Coach Black and Eugene Hampp with six and eight points respectively. Hancel Warner had 10 points to lead the seniors.

Due to MacAbee and Griffey's exit from the game via the foul route, the Freshman B outfit was compelled to forfeit to the Freshman A team. The Frosh was ahead at the time—25-3.

On Wednesday the first contest was the intra-Sophomore class battle. The contest was one of the closest of the year. A foul shot won the contest for the B team in the last minute.

A highly favored Junior B team swamped a Junior A team to win the pennant, Martin had 14 points to pace the winners and Kochensparger had six counters to lead the losers. Coffland and Brintlinger were ejected from the game for roughness.

EDITORIAL MUSIC
Music is probably the most revered and best loved of the arts. It reaches the lowest ranks of uneducated people as well as those who know and understand the opera.

There are many types of music from which, by our mental make-up and likes and dislikes, we select the type which we prefer. Some people choose folk tunes or religious hymns, some like concerts, symphonies, operas and chamber music; others like "hill billy" melodies; while still others like popular swing songs and, lastly, the one that almost everyone loves, the band. The band is a symbol of fellowship and organized musical talent.

Have you ever visited a community park in a city where the band was giving a concert? Have you ever watched a parade? Do you marvel at the way a member of a band can march, keep in step with others, and still read correctly the music that he is playing? Do you, when you see and hear your band become excited and proud to say, "That's our band"?

If you have not experienced the joy of hearing your band you are missing something. Imagine how would you feel if you were a member of a band and your audience did not appreciate your effort. It would make you feel discouraged and as if you never wanted to play again.

If you have not attended band concerts in the past, I suggest that you plan to come to at least one of the future concerts and enjoy with your classmates and the public, music that is ours.

STOOGES READY FOR ANNUAL HOP
The regular Stogie meeting was held Tuesday evening at the home of Frank Davis Jr.

At this meeting further plans were made for the annual Stogie dance to be held in the Memorial Hall, April 5. It was decided by the club that Bill Kessler and his orchestra will furnish the music. Although this orchestra is from Lancaster, several members are from the vicinity of Circleville. Decorations this year will be done by Richard Martin.

Gale Hitchcock is in charge of having tickets printed. Mrs. Frank Davis and Tom Harden will take charge of refreshments.

Tickets may be purchased from any Stogie member. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 12:00.

MEETING POSTPONED

FOURTH GRADING PERIOD AT END; 20 RANK FIRST
The principal's office disclosed Thursday, that in connection with the fourth periodic grade cards, distributed Wednesday, 55 pupils made grades which entitled them to places on the C. H. S. "honor roll". In order to obtain a berth on this recognition sheet a pupil must have a grade average of 3.2; 3.7 for the first honor roll.

In figuring pupils' averages grades in major subjects are classified in the following manner—A, 4; B, 3; C, 2; D, 1; and F, 0. In number of class members placing on this period's honor list, the totals run parallel with class ranks—the senior class supplied 18 honor pupils, the juniors 16, the sophomores 13 and the freshman eight.

Of the total of 55, 20 are on the first honor roll and the remaining 35 on the lower list. Eight Circleville pupils are listed as having a perfect point average of 4, which denotes a straight A report card.

Following is a list of those pupils whose grades are recognized as being worthy of places on the "honor roll".

ART SUPERVISER VISITS DISPLAY
Mrs. Brunelle Downing, art supervisor, spent last Saturday at Antioch College in Yellow Springs, Ohio, the occasion being the Business Machines' Corporation Art Display. The work exhibited in this display was that of artists of 79 countries.

At the New York World's Fair last summer this display was one of the most popular attractions. Yellow Springs is the only mid-west college town to have the honor of this display.

Mrs. Downing also visited the pynmasium in which a new mural has just been completed. The subject of this work is "Humanity Between Chaos and Order." Gilbert Wilson who did this work explained to Mrs. Downing the symbolism of the mural. She said, "Mr. Wilson is one of the younger well-known modern artists." He has been a year on this mural which is a gift of the class of 1938 to the college.

EASTER SEALS

As we approach this joyous Easter time with its theme of birth, life and hope, and as we see nature unfolding all of its beauty and color, it is inspiring to know that the International Society for Crippled Children, its affiliated state societies and local chapters have selected this joyous season for the annual sale of crippled children seals.

And it is a genuine pleasure to lend my hand in the campaign for the sale of crippled children throughout the state of Ohio and I am grateful for this opportunity to say these few words in regard to this campaign.

In connection with the activities of the Circleville Rotary Club, I have been interested in the cause of crippled children for many years and I am happy to say that my fellow Rotarians have always manifested a generous interest in every phase of this movement which is aimed at relieving unnecessary suffering and providing opportunities for the handicapped children of Ohio. I can state with authority that whenever a deserving case has been called to the attention of our local Rotary Club, the response has been prompt and considerate of every possibility for helping the unfortunate boy or girl who has been deprived of certain opportunities and pleasures which are normal lot of physical abled children.

Many years ago Rotary recognized this field as one of genuine merit. We have tried to promote this work as a service to our community in line with Rotary's belief that the future will take care of itself if we take care of the men and women of tomorrow. In the eyes of Rotary the crippled children are deserving of every consideration as men and women of tomorrow. It is the responsibility of those of us who are able today to provide medical care and vocational training for these crippled children so that tomorrow none of them will be public charges unable either to care for themselves or provide for their own support. There is no particular reason why Rotary should assume this responsibility alone or rather there is no good reason why the support of this unquestionable worth-while undertaking should be limited to the membership of any single organization. Every church member in Ohio should share in this work, every taxpayer in the state should have an interest in this campaign, every educational leader, every teacher, every doctor and lawyer, business man and average citizen. Yes, every man and woman in Ohio should be proud to have a part in this work.

Improving the lot of the unfortunate child will make Ohio a more pleasant and more finer state in which to live and in which to do business. We are all of us stockholders in this state of ours. We are all members of this commonwealth with an interest in the welfare of the state and its parts including both the physical parts such as lands and buildings and also the human parts which includes both the able bodied and the disabled bodies. The able bodies can take care of themselves but the disabled must be helped and the more help we give to the disabled when they are young, the less help we shall have to give them when they are old and helpless.

Therefore, as a matter of pure unselfish interest of dollars and cents it can be argued logically that everyone who has a taxable interest in the state of Ohio should be in favor of contributing toward the promotion of this campaign to provide funds for the better care and training necessary for these crippled youngsters who are unable to obtain these necessary things for themselves. There is not much that needs to be said on this subject. The cause needs no description. The fact that there are handicapped children who need help is well known to all of us. The extent of the need has been recognized by our state government for many years and by the federal government and the Social Security Act of 1935 which provides for grants of funds to states to help extend and improve their services to the crippled children. In almost all large cities and in many smaller ones and hamlets or classes for crippled children. There are clinics for the examination and treatment of such cases and there are special therapeutic swimming pools such as the public swimming pool at Dayton where victims of infantile paralysis are given treatments and baths under trained supervision. Various facilities are provided in many communities. Federal and state and local agencies are cooperating in the drive to im-

to reach Finland, they, the Swedes, would send troops immediately if assured that later the British and French would back them up.

This Chamberlain also took under advisement.

Chapter 6—By mid-February, the Finns were giving ground steadily before renewed Russian onslaughts. But Chamberlain still was advising with his Cabinet.

By mid-February, also the Germans had heard of the Allied plan for an expeditionary force through the Scandinavian countries, and had warned Sweden against it. This put the Swedes in a tough spot.

However, Sweden still stood by her position. She informed the Allies that if they would send a full-fledged expeditionary force, Sweden would permit its passage across her territory and cooperate fully. But if the Allies only sent dribbles of volunteers, then Sweden could not cooperate. For this would only mean risking German displeasure without Allied protection.

Chapter 7—Almost one month later, March 10, Finland, exhausted, sent peace envoys to Moscow.

Next day Prime Minister Chamberlain appeared in the House of Commons to announce that France and Great Britain would "proceed immediately and jointly to help Finland" with "all the available resources at their disposal"—if Finland asked for help.

Simultaneously, word was passed out from Allied sources that Finland was talking with Moscow merely to make the British realize the gravity of the situation, and bring help from them. In going to Moscow, London whispered, the Finns were bluffing.

Chapter 8—Next day the Finns signed a peace treaty. They were not bluffing. They were all in.

(Note—Most interested observer of the above history is reported to be King Carol of Rumania, next victim of the Russo-German squeeze.)

It might be difficult to sell pud-

prove the lot and the outlook of the disabled child. Yet there is a kind of service not rendered by any public agency which depends almost entirely upon funds raised by a popular subscription. In Ohio the success of the federal and state programs depend on the measure of cooperation which the Ohio Society for Crippled Children is able to give and the crippled children seal like the anti-tuberculosis seal offers a convenient method whereby the public can participate in this work without leaving the heavy part of the financial burden upon a few particularly interested benefactors. Everyone can afford to buy at least a few of these seals and every penny that is spent for a seal is just that much toward buying a happy life and a useful life for some boy or girl who deserves a break.

I urge my friends and their friends to avail themselves of the first opportunity to buy crippled children seals and to use them to advertise this most worthy and potentially profitable cause. The cause of every child who is handicapped by physical disability.

I am confident that the sale of seals will be a success and that the Ohio Society for Crippled Children will thereby be able to continue its splendid service to these children and to the state of Ohio; an organization that has done so much for the crippled children. Buy crippled children seals so that these children may be given an opportunity to enjoy the same birthright you and I have enjoyed.

PUBLIC HEALTH LEAGUE REELECTS J. O. EAGLESON PRESIDENT FOR 1940

COUNTY GROUP HEARS REPORT OF 1939 WORK

Mrs. Kermit Dountz And Mrs. Paul Cromley Put On Executive Unit

The entire slate of last year's officers was reelected at the meeting of the Pickaway County Public Health League with the sole exception of the naming of two new members to serve on the executive committee, as the group convened at the Court House Friday night.

The reelected officers to serve for the coming year are J. O. Eagleson, president; George D. McDowell, vice president; Mrs. Harriet Henness, secretary; William T. Elm, treasurer, and Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, executive secretary.

Mrs. Kermit Dountz and Mrs. Paul Cromley are the two new members of the executive committee. The other committee members are Ralph Head, C. A. Higley, Miss Clara Southward and Mrs. Harry Dunlap.

The sale of Christmas seals for the coming year will be in the hands of an unannounced committee to be headed by Mrs. George Crites. Carl Bennett was named as representative director. A film entitled "On the Firing Line," which presented the story of the fight against tuberculosis, was shown by Ben Kneper, representative of the Ohio Public Health Association.

Miss Dunlap, who served as executive secretary during the 1939 campaign, submitted the following financial report:

Three thousand letters mailed, $1,324.87 received to date.

Collections:

Deercreek Township $47.20, school $10.50.

Washington Township $20.09, school $3.81.

Circleville Township $18.75.

Madison Township $16.35, school $2.51.

Muhlenberg Township $8.35, school $2.

Monroe Township $9.50, school $1.51.

Wayne Township $15, school $1.41.

Darby Township $7.45, school $2.51.

Saltcreek Township $20.65.

Jackson Township $17.75, school $6.70.

Harrison Township $28.10, school $7.25.

Perry Township $14.24, school $4.51.

City of Ashville $102, school $7.50.

Scioto Township $21.85, school $12.75, feebleminded school $16.11.

New Holland-Perry Township $37.75, school $17.92.

Pickaway Township $51.85, school $14.91.

Walnut Township $44.54, school $23.27.

Total amount received from townships, $627.33.

Circleville schools: High Street $6, Corwin $5.81, Franklin $4.66, Walnut $4.23, High School and eighth grade $8.13, teachers $20.75, total $49.58.

City of Circleville $697.54.

Miss Dunlap reported that the Public Health League's accounts were audited by Durward Dowden and found to be correct.

Twenty percent of the money received was paid to the Ohio Public Health Association, the balance to remain in Pickaway County for use in the fight to prevent tuberculosis.

FORD GOOD WILL CARS SHOWN IN CIRCLEVILLE

Two specially painted stock model Fords operated by Ford Good Will drivers pulled up in front of the Pickaway Sales and Service showrooms on West Main Street, Friday, as they arrived with a convoy of Mercury cars escorted by the police and sheriff's cars.

Mayor William B. Cady and Sheriff Charles Radcliff signed the log that the good will cars are carrying on their trip. East Pictures were taken by the driver during the log signing.

Sheriff Radcliff drove one of the cars in a test over a prescribed course which included various kinds of driving conditions. Maintaining an average speed of 50 miles per hour, he reported gasoline consumption of one gallon every 21 miles.

The convoy and good will cars left the city late Friday.

RECKLESS, POSTS BOND

William Holland, 24, Charleston, West Virginia, was arrested by Patrolman Miller Fissell at 7:15 p. m. Friday and charged with reckless operation of a motor vehicle on North Court Street. He posted a $10 bond pending his hearing at 7 p. m. Monday on the charge of driving 43 miles per hour.

CLEVELAND JURY STARTS ANOTHER DAY OF STUDY

CLEVELAND, March 16—The jury of nine women and three men deliberating the fate of John L. McCormick, 21-year-old University of Pittsburgh senior, resumed deliberation today after being locked up for the second night.

The jury was taken to a hotel at 10:30 p. m. after 15 hours of deliberation. McCormick is charged with the murder of Theodore Nichols, a special policeman, during the holdup of a Cleveland Western Union office January 8.

History, Comedy Featured In Theatre Weekend Bills

"THREE Cheers For The Irish" is the New picture starting Sunday at the Grand Theatre. With a cast that includes Priscilla Lane, Thomas Mitchell, Alan Hale, Dennis Morgan and other screen favorites it promises to be the funniest picture in months.

MIKEY Rooney and Judy Garland appear at the Circle Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in "Babes in Arms." Rooney dances, sings, plays the piano, appears in blackface and gives impersonations. Judy's voice was at its best in this picture.

STARRED in the first juvenile biography ever to reach the screen, Mickey Rooney comes to the Cliftona Theatre starting Sunday as "Young Tom Edison," heart-stirring drama of a typical American boy who was to become the Wizard of Menlo Park. In the cast are Fay Bainter, George Bancroft and little Virginia Weidler, under the direction of Norman Taurog of "Boys Town" fame.
